Eagles star in quandary

by Ben Stinga

TALENTED forward Andrew MacNish is in a dilemma about his football — he's caught between club loyalty and VFL ambitions.

MacNish has suffered an unpredictable season and his immediate football future is confusing.

He has been treated like a yo-yo by the West Coast Eagles — up one week, down the next — and time is running out for him this season.

The dilemma he faces is:

- Does he play one more game with Subiaco and be eligible for the WAFL finals; providing he doesn't play in the remaining Eagles games?
- Or does he win back his Eagles spot, albeit temporarily and miss the chance of being in a Lions premiership thrust?

The 1986 All Australian representative has been harshly treated by the Eagles selectors, who have doubted his worth as a permanent member of the team.

Despite performing solidly for Subiaco, MacNish has only been swung into the Eagles line-up in an emergency; generally to be shunted on and off the interchange bench or, worse still, made 21st man which eliminates a week's football altogether.

Last season he was successfully used on a wing against South Australia at Football Park and in three seasons with Subiaco he has played in the centre, on a wing, as a ruck rover and even on a half-back flank with success.

However, in the Eagles line-up he has been stationed on a half-foward flank, generally coming off the bench in 20-minute spells.

"It's confusing not knowing where you're playing week by week," says MacNish.

"You can't help but worry about it.

"I'm in my final year of an engineering degree and good results are essential. But I can't sit down to study for more than 15 minutes without worrying about it all."

MacNish has been in outstanding form for Subiaco in recent weeks.

He picked up 29 possessions (18 kicks, 8 marks, 11 handballs) against East Fremantle; 36 possessions (16 kicks, 10 marks, 20 handballs) against East Perth and 22 kicks, nine marks and 10 handballs against Swan Districts.

He was also a busy player against Claremont last week.

OVERLOOKED

Yet he was overlooked for the important game against Hawthorn last Sunday after the drubbing the Eagles (minus MacNish) received from the Sydney Swans.

"I was desperate to play against Hawthorn," says MacNish.

"It was disappointing missing out on that side, but those things happen in football.

"I'm determined to fight my way back into the side somehow. But at the same time, I'm keen to play with Subiaco in the finals."

For the last three seasons, MacNish has had to contend with constant shin soreness, but it hasn't affected his level of performance.

"It got to the stage where it was unbearable," he said.

"At one stage before this season, I could hardly walk. But that is something I've had to live with for three years and I've done what's been required."

MacNish has had two important games to think about in the lead-up to this weekend's football.

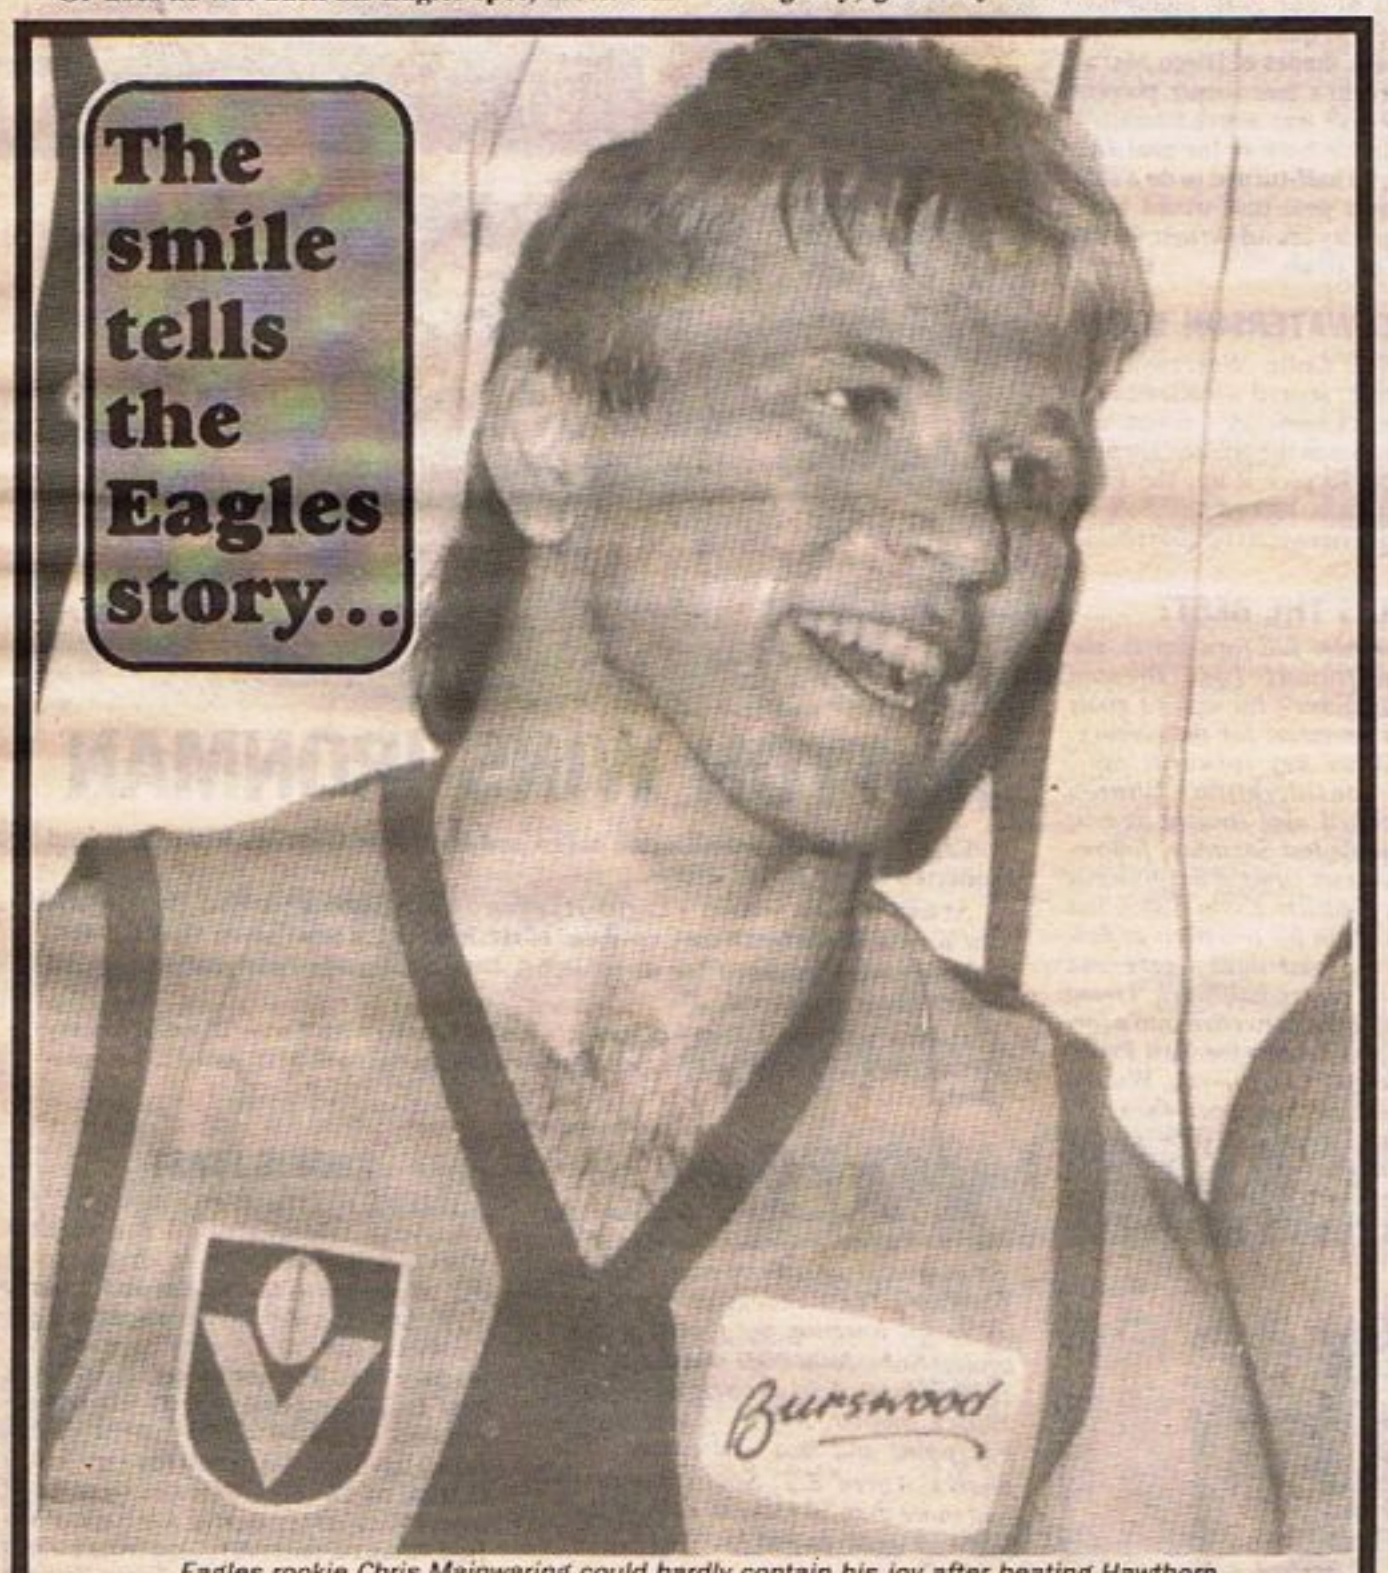
Subiaco and the Eagles are fighting for a spot in the finals and he is eager to see both sides win a premiership.

The Eagles line up against North Melbourne at the WACA Ground on Friday night, while Subiaco must beat South Fremantle to stay in contention for a second semi-final berth.

"The Eagles are still in there with a chance," he said.

"It's also a danger game for Subiaco.

"Bunts (coach Haydn Bunton) has stressed how important it is to win at Fremantle Oval and though we don't have a good record down there I still think we can win."



Eagles rookie Chris Mainwaring could hardly contain his joy after beating Hawthorn.

FOOTY PUNCHLINES

GREAT GOALS

THERE were plenty of fantastic goals kicked in last weekend's football — and two stand out. Naturally, the goal kicked by Laurie Keene to help the Eagles down Hawthorn was a ripper. A 65-metre shot bounced between three players and through for a vital goal. East Perth little man David Bain produced another memorable goal at Perth Oval. After playing on, he was tackled and dragged around, but managed to get his foot to the ball, which bounced over a couple of heads and eluded a reaching Swans player to sneak through.

SPECTACULAR GOAL

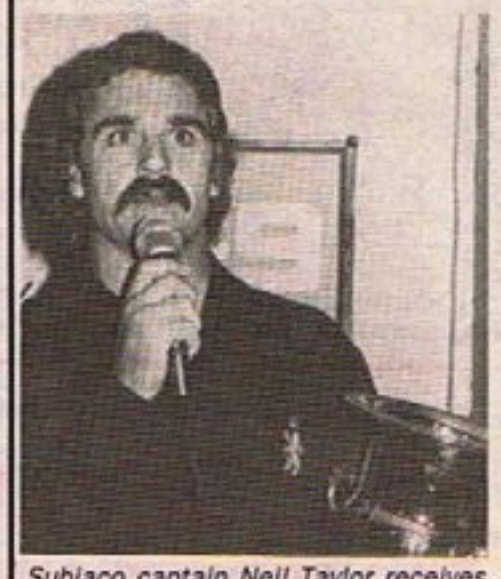
DYNAMIC South Fremantle centre-half-forward Peter Sumich grabbed his regular quota of four goals again this week and one was quite spectacular. In fact, there were shades of Diego Maradonna (the world's best soccer player) about it. The ball was above Sumich's head and with his back to the goal and an opponent, he half-turned to do a side volley. It was a goal that would have brought a capacity crowd to their feet at the World Cup finals.

... AND WATERSON TOO

LIKEWISE, Colin Waterson, of East Fremantle, scored a volley goal, though it wasn't quite as spectacular. The ball fell loose in the goalsquare and not being able to pick it up, the East Fremantle bigman kicked the ball in mid-air straight between the goal posts.

WHO'S THE BEST?

WHO is the best full-forward in the WAFL competition? Todd Breman leads the goalkicker's list with 81 goals and appears on target for the century. However, other key forwards must come into consideration. Clinton Browning kicked nine straight against South Fremantle last Saturday, following on from his six straight the previous week. Swan Districts Kevin Caton has scored 18 goals in his two trials at full-forward in the past three weeks and former State centre-half-back Grant Campbell has been converted into a forward with some success for East Perth. Let's not forget Claremont's Warren Ralph, who now has more than 500 goals for the Tigers and West Perth's Paddy Madaffari has been popping them through with reasonable regularity. Strong-marking Mick Rea has scored 63 goals.



Subiaco captain Neil Taylor receives the Peter Jackson trophy (the $7500 cheque was presented to general manager Michael Flanagan) for topping the Superscore points table in the second series of WAFL fixtures.

HUTTON WINS IRONMAN

CLAREMONT'S John Hutton has earned the title of football's ironman — and collected $1000 for his efforts.

At half-time on Sunday's Eagles-Hawthorn clash, Hutton took out the title and the Kresta Blinds Ironman Cup ahead of rivals from the other seven WAFL clubs.

Points were awarded for three events — a 400-metres run; goalkicking and handballing at a target.

Hutton won from East Fremantle's Colin Lamb, with Swan Districts Danny Penny third. They received Kresta products to the value of $500 and $250 respectively.

RECORD LOW

SOUTH Fremantle achieved a new low in the third quarter against East Fremantle at East Fremantle Oval last Saturday. The Bulldogs managed only 29 kicks, lowering the record they set against Subiaco in 1981 when they had 31 kicks in the third quarter. During that 29-kick quarter, Souths managed only one point and that was forced. The Sharks scored 8.5. South Fremantle had more than 50 kicks in each of their first two quarters and kicked 13.5.

STATE AWARDS

TWO awards from the recent interstate game between WA and Victoria that didn't generate any publicity involve the players themselves. Victorian centreman Greg Williams not only won the E.J. Whitten Medal for Victoria's best, but also the VFL Players' Association Most Valuable Player award as voted on by the players themselves. Wingman Phil Narkle was judged WA's most valuable player by the Vic players.

ROOKIE FEAST

THERE is certainly an abundance of first-year talent around the eight WAFL clubs this season. With the exodus of players to the Eagles and other VFL clubs, the way has been opened up for many new youngsters to stake a league claim. The voting in radio 6IX's best first-year player ($500 from the Innaloo shopping centre as the first prize) has Swan Districts Troy Ugle out in front on 12 votes, followed by teammate Mick Grasso and Claremont's Ben Allan on nine. A rookie from both those clubs come next — Tiger Brian Sutherland and Swans Peter Old, both on five votes.

EAGLES WINNERS

THE winners in this week's "Pick the Score" competition were Mrs C. Williams, of Girrawheen and K. Waters, of Maida Vale, who correctly forecast that the Eagles would score 115 points against Hawthorn. The winners receive double passes to a WAFL match and go into the barrel for the end-of-season draw for a trip for two to the VFL grand final, courtesy of Australian Airlines.

The AUSTRALIAN Game

HAPPY WARRIOR

ROOKIE Eagles defender John Worsfold hurt his troublesome shoulder against Hawthorn — but it still couldn't wipe the smile off his face. He's now been in two victories over Hawthorn in his seven games with the Eagles and has played his part in both of them. He showed his coolness in the hectic last quarter when he broke out of defence and ran the ball down the grandstand wing. "I was looking for the boundary line, but then I saw Adrian (Barich) come into sight so I aimed a pass at him," says Worsfold. The pass hit Barich and the Eagles survived another crisis point.

BIG INSPIRATION

LANKY ruckman Laurie Keene was undoubtedly the unamimous choice as best player for the Eagles and naturally won the Australian Airlines/Burswood Resort best-player award. The big man took over the role of No. 1 ruckman when Alex Ishchenko left the ground injured and match statistics of four marks, 15 kicks, seven handballs and 30 hit-outs didn't really caputre his effort. Some of his work in the packs was sheer inspirational stuff.

HART HURTING

GRITTY rover David Hart had an impressive 19 kicks against Hawthorn — and every one of them would have hurt. Hart revealed a bleeding big toe when he removed the boot on his right foot. But it didn't stop his smile. Hart's improved competitiveness has been one of the big bonuses for the Eagles as the season has progressed.

STRONG SUPPORT

THE Eagles have developed into a close-knit group and the players who miss out on the team are quick to rally around their team-mates. Paul Peos was one of the first into the rooms after the match to congratulate his victorious colleagues.

BROWNLOW FAVOURITE

WEST Austrlian fans saw convincing proof of why Hawthorn rover John Platten is a 3/1 favourite to win this year's Brownlow Medal for the VFL's fairest and best player. His display against the Eagles was superb, winning 26 kicks and 11 handpasses. His two soccered goals in the third term might not have been true Aussie Football style; but they were genuine rover's goals, being great opportunists shots for goal. Platten reads the ball magnificently around the packs and his fearless work at the drop of the ball is inspirational. He told an after-match press conference that being tagged each week was something that didn't bother him anymore. "Cowboy Neale told me in South Australia that good players attract tags, so you have to get used to it," he said.

TIMELY REMINDER

EAGLES ruck-rover Steve Malaxos didn't miss the opportunity to have a snide shot at Hawthorn coach Allan Jeans at the after-match press conference. "I expected to be tagged today," he said. "But it did seem a bit illogical. Hawthorn didn't think I was good enough to be in their side two years ago and now they have a tag on me."

JEANS RESPONDS

HAWTHORN coach Allan Jeans, never one to shirk an issue responded boldly when a critic Robert Bennett fired a question in right after that Steve Malaxos statement. "Do you think you made a mistake letting him go," was the query? Jeans explained: "At the time Steve was at Hawthorn we had Terry Wallace in the centre and Leigh Matthews in a forward pocket. We just couldn't fit him in. He's a very good player; he doesn't lack courage but maybe lacks a little pace. I wish him the best with his football, but that's the way the game is."

STRAIGHT TALKING

HAWKS coach Allan Jeans continued his straight talking when asked why the team lost a game where they had such a dominance of handball — 95 to 49 at half-time to lead by 20 points. "Our work rate dropped off as the pressure increased in the last quarter," said Jeans. But he ruled out the team's late arrival on Saturday night as an excuse. "We were happy with our arrangements to come over late. We just didn't convert our early possession rate and the big ground and the travelling probably took its toll. But our players worked extremely hard and our committment was total. You can't ask for more than that."

THE GAME JUST WON'T BE THE SAME ...

IN cricket circles, the expression is "the game is not the same without McGillvray".

With the recent announcement by Perth coach Mal Brown that he intends to step down from coaching at the end of this season, the football equivalent will be "the game is not the same without Brownie".

The name Malcolm Gregory Brown has been synonymous with football for over 23 years. The burly frame "you love to hate" if he is not on your side, will be sadly missed, particularly at a time when the competition needs characters in the game.

To say his career has been a colourful one would be an understatement.

Whether at East Perth, Richmond, Claremont, South Fremantle or Perth during those 23 years, there has been some form of controversy.

Many people may remember Brownie for his numerous antics on and off the field or his constant brushes with administrators. But over-riding all those was his contribution to the game as both a brilliant footballer and astute coach.

In my two years at Perth as a selector, I found Brown's main aim was to see those he coached suceed, not only in football, but in their own personal life as well.

RESPONSIBILITY

I can recall a night game Perth played at the WACA against Claremont earlier in the year as an illustration of this. Perth had not been going well up to that stage of the season and in the week leading up to the game, Brownie gave the senior players the responsibility of training the team and coaching them on the night.

Perth got thrashed and the 45-minutes behind-closed-doors address that followed will stick in my mind for a long time. There was no ranting or raving because Perth lost another game. But an emotion charged message delivered to the players.

In essence, he said no matter what you do in life, whether it's fooball, business or family, give it your best shot and never give in.

My earliest memories of Brown were when I was an avid East Perth fan in the late sixties. He was a superb footballer (a Sandover Medal bears testimony to that) with a destructive handpass that would travel 30 metres to the likes of Gary Bygraves or Syd Jackson as they streamed down the ground into an open goal.

CONFRONTATION

Who could forget his great playing coaching feat in 1972 when he took East Perth to a premiership? Or his classic confrontation with the great Carlton side in an end-of-season championship?

It wasn't his football skills on display on that occasion, but his physical strength when he single handedly took on a number of Carlton players after some of his young team were on the receiving end of rough treatment — and he came out on top.

His loyalty to his team resulted in a number of battles with the legendary Fred Book and his committee over players rights.

Brown's short VFL career was clouded by that well-talked about incident against Essendon at Windy Hill.

In typical Brown fashion his main recollection of the incident was being kicking in the knee by a policeman's horse and that he would have missed the following week's game even if he hadn't been suspended.

While at Claremont, he could lay claim to pioneering the interchange rule when he sent John Colreavy back on the ground during a game (even though it was illegal at the time).

From talking to Brown I get the impression some of his most rewarding coaching days were those spent at South Fremantle, which saw him win another premiership.

Ask Brownie who is the best player he has coached and I'm sure the name Stephen Michael would pop up. Throw in the likes of Maurice Rioli, Noel Carter, Tony Morley and Basil Campbell and you'll understand why Brown enjoyed his association with South Fremantle.

Who could forget the way Brownie beat the establishment by coaching South from a cherry picker after he had been banned from coaching on the ground?

While Brown has not enjoyed the success he would have liked at Perth, he nevertheless brought some success back into the Demons in 1986 after a long lean spell.

EMERGENCE

More importantly, he played a major role in the emergence of Brett Yorgey, Earl Spalding, Adrian Barich, Kim Fancote, Joe Santostefano and Ian Newman as quality players; he rejuvenated the playing careers of Mick Rea, Bryan Cousins and John Gavranich along with introducing a number of young players into league football.

Controversy also followed Brown to Lathlain Park when he took the Perth reserves team off the ground against West Perth after he believed the game had got out of control.

History will remember the suspension controversy of the Farmer brothers as a result of that game.

A budding George Negus will remember that day after he tried to interview Brown while he was giving his quarter-time address to the league side.

Fortunately he lived to see another day as Brownie took out his anger on the microphone.

What about his bikini stroll down Hay Street Mall as the result of an outrageous bet?

But all that aside, Brown has been an astute coach, dedicated to his task and prepared to try anything to see his players achieve success, not for him but for themselves.

It would have been easy for Brown to coast when Perth were obviously not going to make the finals this year but that attitude is not inherent in him. Until game 21 is over for the season you can bet Brownie will be trying his hardest to see Perth win games.

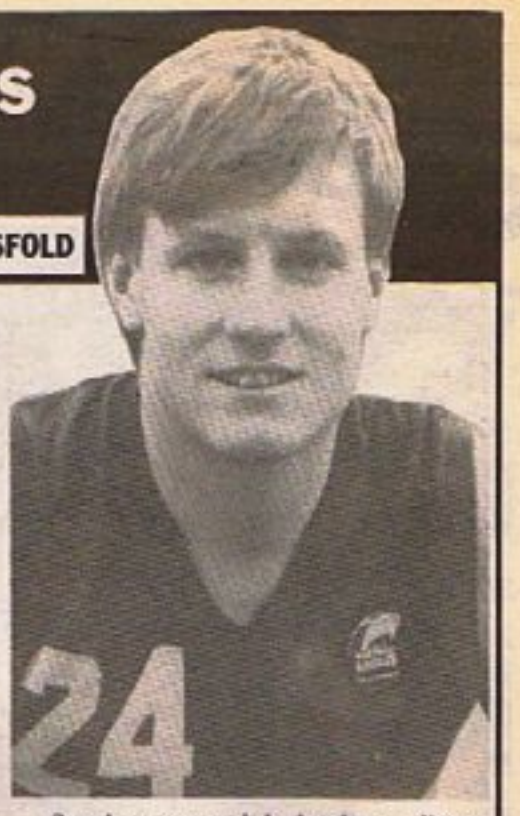
When he hangs up his 'board' at the end of the season his record will show Sandover Medallist, premiership player and coach, State player, State coach and numerous other achievements.

To the purist, Brown may not have been an ornament to the game. But to the majority he has made a significant contribution to football in WA.

Yes Mal, the game won't be the same.

In the Eagles nest...

with JOHN WORSFOLD



Hawks wins are a highlight

TWO wins over Hawthorn — unbelievable!

I've really been fortunate to be in both teams — and what a contrast.

The game at Princes Park, when we beat them on Anzac Day, was completely different to last Sunday's match.

Hawthorn don't have a very big following and even when they kicked goals that day, there wasn't a lot of noise. At Subiaco Oval last Sunday, the crowd support for us was terrific.

They're a tough side, though. They have an excellent blend of big-man strength, strong and mobile small men and a lot of six-footers who are quick and strong.

* * * *

I'M pleased to have got over the shoulder problem though I hurt it again against Hawthorn.

It was disappointing to injure the shoulder against Melbourne, which was my sixth Eagles game. I felt that I was just getting used to the tempo of the VFL.

Rest was the cure and I certainly didn't mind coming back via South Fremantle as it gave me a chance to play in the same team as my brother Peter.

He spent most of that game on the interchange bench, but at least we were in the same 20.

* * * *

A LOT of people ask what it's like playing for South Fremantle one week and the Eagles the next. The pace of the game is the biggest difference, but it's still hard work getting kicks no matter where you play.

You get a little more time to get rid of the ball in WAFL ranks — in the VFL games, there's no time; it's instant.

South are certainly having a disappointing run at present, but the players are working desperately hard. They definately don't go out there not wanting to win and their attitude on the track is one of determination.

They'll come good.

* * * *

TRAINING with the Eagles is certainly a tough and professional operation.

We work hard on the track, but it's enjoyable.

The standard is quite high, probably because we only have 25 or so players out there with our injuries and so forth. This means that you handle the ball a lot more than at club level, where there often are 45 to 50 players on the track.

The pressure is always on with the Eagles; you can't afford to slacken off, especially on the track.

* * * *

THERE are some pretty good players in the rival VFL teams we've played, but I think Brad Hardie is the hardest I've played on.

I only had half a game on him when we played the Brisbane Bears at the WACA Ground, but he's hard to keep tabs on.

The former WA player covers a lot of territory and he can be a real damaging opponent.

MAGRO'S MESSAGE

RADIO 6IX commentator Harvey Deegan had a message for South Fremantle coach Stan Magro last Thursday night after team selection. Deegan, announcing WAFL teams in his 8pm to 9pm slot, criticised South for, once again, failing to place their players in position, simply releasing a list of names. Deegan suggested that as South had lost 14 games in a row, this method of announcing the team to the public obviously didn't achieve much. "If you are coaching South next year, Stan, you'll find that the WAFL will direct you to place your team in position," was Deegan's message. Deegan rightly suggested that if the WAFL was going to entice fans back through the turnstiles to see club football, coaches could at least put their players in some sort of team position. After all, 14 coaches in the VFL do that every week.

STRANGE RULE

WE'VE all had our say about this strange new rule the VFL has introduced — where the player chasing the player going for the ball now gets an advantage. Under new umpires' instructions, if you dive on the ball, showing desperation and courage and if the bloke behind you jumps into your back crushing you into the ground, he'll get the free kick. True! When Hawthorn's bad boy, Dermott Brereton kicked his team's 10th goal last Sunday after doing exactly that to Eagles winger Chris Mainwaring, everyone was puzzled. "That was shocking," came the cry from George Grljusich on 6WF. "These decisions always go the way of the Vics when their umpires are in control." Co-commentator Ken Armstrong was quite disgusted. "Mainwaring was the only player who wanted the ball," he said.

SLACK SCORES

HERE we go again — more scoreboard complaints! This column continues to bring the League's attention to the inadequate service scoreboards at WAFL games offer the paying public and last Saturday at Perth Oval was no exception. Not only did they have trouble getting the East Perth-Swans game score right, but their transistor radio obviously wasn't working either as they were a long way behind the other games. At half-time in the Derby, with South Fremantle leading 13.5 to 11.6, the scoreboard showed 11.1 to 6.3 — a good 20 minutes behind. And talking about that scoreboard — how come the Royals-Swans under-19s score was left on the board all day, but there was no sign of the reserves match result? If you arrived at the ground after the reserves had finished, you wouldn't have known which game was on the board.

MARLOWS
AUTO PARTS & ACCESSORIES

THE HOOD

WA's most feared, footy columnist.

Is this a sign of the Eagles new-found professionalism — orange juice. There wasn't a beer in sight after the Hawthorn game. Pictured (left to right) with their natural fruit juice are Adrian Barich, Wally Matera and Michael O'Connell.

ETHNIC, AFTER ALL...

RADIO 6NR is an ethnic operation after all! This forthright columnist ran foul of radio 6NR a couple of seasons back by suggesting that they were an "ethnic radio" operation; finally giving in and dropping the reference. But last Saturday, at precisely 5pm, 6NR listeners found out that ethnic radio takes preference over football coverage. The station's footy team were half-way through their after-match summaries when the studio announcer cut in and introduced their 5pm show, despite protests in the background from football co-ordinator Tim Flynn. "This is ethnic radio 6NR and we now introduce our Austrian programme," was the introduction as Kim Hagdorn found himself talking in competition with some foreign language expert!

CRIBB CONVINCED

FOOTBALL'S most controversial critic Bob Cribb has put the "mocker" on more good things at football, the races or even politics than he cares to remember. And now he's turned his attention to Claremont. He has had doubts about the Tigers' hopes of winning the flag all season, but after seeing their gutsy demolition of Subiaco last week, he's changed his mind — and probably changed his bet! "They showed me today that I've got no right doubting their claims to the flag," he said. "They deserve to be favourites."

DANGEROUS DERMOTT

RADIO 6WF commentator George Grljusich was quite outspoken last Sunday on the activities of Hawthorn forward Dermott Brereton. After several behind-the-play incidents, Grljusich suggested that Brereton had to be stopped. "He can't be allowed to go around like this," he said. "He'll maim someone if the umpires don't act." At a later press conference, Grljusich posed the question about Brereton's behind-the-play actions to Hawks coach Allan Jeans — but it virtually went unanswered.

AMO'S HELMET

AGGRESSIVE South Fremantle defender Tony Amoroso has adopted the use of a helmet this season and the 28-year-old is showing a lot of club patriotism. "Amo" has two helmets, one white and one red and he wears them on alternate weeks.

POOR SHOW

UMPIRE Grant Vernon put in a disappointing display in the Subiaco-Claremont game at Subiaco Oval last Saturday. Vernon did his level best to confuse players, spectators and the media with some baffling decisions. To make matters worse, he pointed free kicks to the wrong team on several occasions and was then forced to amend his blunders under embarrassing circumstances. Several knowledgeable media identities were seen looking into the rule books for some kind of explanation, while others wondered if their brand new 1987 rule books had already gone out of date. At just 22 years of age, umpire Vernon has picked up the annoying habit of lecturing players, some of whom are up to 10 years his senior. Experienced players don't need to be told the finer points of the game by a rookie who has never played football at the highest level. Perhaps it is time for Vernon to take stock of recent successes in a level-headed manner — you are only as good as your last performance.

FOLLOW ME...

POOR old Joe Ahmat fell for the three-card trick against Subiaco last week. His opponent Greg Carpenter ran in between Todd Breman, who was preparing to take a free kick and the Claremont player, who was on the mark. Ahmat promptly followed Carpenter, automatically giving away a 15-metre penalty and putting the Subiaco youngster well within range. Breman made no mistake.

FOOTBALL FACTS

Caton joins a select group

KEVIN Caton last week became the seventh Swan Districts player to kick a double figure goal tally and the second to perform that feat against East Perth.

Ted Holdsworth kicked 10 out of 12 goals for Swans against East Perth at Bassendean Oval in 1937. He also had match tallies of 11 and 10 against South Fremantle and Perth respectively in 1938.

Max George (1974), Brian Close (1975), Mark Olsen (twice against South and twice against Subiaco). Simon Beasley kicked 13 and 10 in consecutive games in rounds two and three in 1981. Brent Hutton was the sixth player with his eleven against Claremont in 1984.

Only 11 Swan Districts players have kicked more than 200 goals in their career with the black and whites.

Eric Gorman heads that list with 555 goals, followed by Ted Holdsworth with 532, Bill Walker (457), Beasley (291), Olsen (261), Max George (255), Cyril Litterick (246), Robert Lowry (231) and present day West Coast Eagle player, Don Holmes has 289 goals for Swans.

Milestone for Perth Derbies

WEST Perth and East Perth will meet for the 250th time this week.

The Perth Derby usually proves to be a tough encounter. This week's game at Leederville will be the 98th and West Perth have won 10 more games than their rivals at this venue. This is how and where they have performed.

	WACA	Pth	Lead	Subi	NF	SG	TOT
EP	8	63	43	9	1	-	124
WP	6	46	53	12	-	3	120
Draw	1	3	1	-	-	-	5
Total	15	112	97	21	1	3	249

West Perth have won both games against East Perth so far this year. The last time the Falcons made a clean sweep over the Royals in the same year was 23 years ago in 1964.

Both teams have had a winning sequence of 10 against each other. East Perth over West Perth 1918/1921 and West Perth over East Perth 1962/1965.

Claremont have won seven out of their last eight games against Swans and their last four at Claremont Oval. Claremont's best winning run against Swans at Claremont Oval was 11 straight 1936 to 1948. Swans best run at Claremont Oval is four straight between 1974 and 1976.

WINNING RUNS

CLAREMONT'S best winning sequence in League football was their 16 straight from round 10, 1981 to round 2, 1982 (including the second semi and grand final).

They have now gone 16 games without defeat including the drawn game against Subiaco in round nine.

While on the subject of winning sequences, here are the best for the other clubs.

- East Fremantle won 35 straight from 1945-47 (undefeated throughout the 1946 season).
- East Perth won 19 straight from 1958-59.
- Perth's best run was 14 straight 1968-69.
- South Fremantle won 17 straight in 1953.
- Subiaco's best is 10 in a row in 1915. They did nine straight in 1986.
- Swans won 18 straight. The last five of 1979 and the first 13 in 1980.
- West Perth won 11 straight in 1968.

LATE ARRIVALS

In 1888 footballers were not noted for their punctuality. Two weeks in a row one side turned up one hour late and the games started at four o'clock.

The following year things became worse. Two teams, Metropolitans and Rovers, failed to appear for their games against Unions at Fremantle in successive weeks.

TIGER RECORD

SYDNEY Swans have amassed 635 points in their last three matches. They became the first side in the history of the VFL to kick over thirty goals in three consecutive games. By comparison how about Claremont's effort in 1981? In three games that year they recorded 641 points with consecutived scores of 39.20 (254), 23.24 (162) and 35.15 (225).

The Sydney Swans combined winning margin in those three matches was 384 points. Claremont's was 418 points.

ON TOP AGAIN

TODD Bremen is ready to become the first Subiaco player in almost 15 years to head the goalkicking table. Austin Robertson Jun. was the last to achieve this in 1972.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Swans get chance to stay in four

SWAN Districts could dispel any doubts about their position in the final four if they can beat Claremont at Claremont Oval on Saturday.

And while that would seem an enormous task it is not beyond the Swans combination which has answered most challenges this season.

The Claremont players looked a little lethargic in beating Subiaco by four points last week and it could be that coach Gerard Neesham is now putting the miles into his players as he sets his charges for the final round.

Although Claremont did not play well last week they were good enough to grab the four premiership points and remain undefeated since the second game of the season.

And with the prospect of several players returning from injury the Tigers could be strengthened this week.

Swans were in devastating touch against East Perth last Saturday in a game which was considered to be a danger for them as they built up for the clash.

TIGERS V SWANS

But the effort of Kevin Caton, who kicked 10 goals, rover Joe Cormack and utility player Troy Ugle assured them of victory and they could look realistically at becoming only the second team this season to beat Claremont.

Certainly they have more at stake than Claremont. Victory would make them fairly secure in fourth place, while defeat could see them displaced this Saturday by the Falcons.

Claremont will again rely on their hard core of experienced players to see them through.

Falcons like it tough

CLASHES between West Perth and East Perth are rugged, no-holds-barred affairs and Saturday's encounter at Leederville Oval promises to be no exception.

The Falcons are fighting for a place in the four and nothing would give the Royals more pleasure than tipping them out of that contest and ensuring that both teams take an early exit from the competition for the premiership.

East Perth made a barren start to the season with only one win coming from their first 14 matches, but two wins in their next four must give them confidence as they prepare for the game.

There is some exciting young talent at the club and the Falcons can ill-afford to take their arch rivals lightly.

FALCONS V ROYALS

Certainly the Royals would need to improve on their performance of last week when they were no match for Swan Districts, but young teams are capable of varying consistencies.

West Perth will again look to big Craig Nelson to lead their charge in the ruck and it will be up to some of the smaller players like Sean King, Les Fong, Gavin Wake and Peter Menaglio to capitalise on his efforts.

Waiting for the tide to turn. . .

South Fremantle have looked capable of ending the longest losing sequence in the club's history in the last few weeks and their port neighbours, East Fremantle, will hope the tide turns for the Bulldogs on Saturday.

If the Bulldogs can upset Subiaco at Fremantle Oval they will be doing East Fremantle a big favour.

Subiaco and the Sharks are hotly contesting the all-important second place on the premiership table and a chance to play Claremont in the second semi-final on September 5.

BULLDOGS V LIONS

The Bulldogs showed some good qualities when they did not surrender in the wake of an East Fremantle onslaught last week.

However, they will need to be on their best form to topple a Subiaco combination which is still reeling from an unlucky loss to Claremont last week.

Subiaco have produced some of their best efforts of the season in recent matches and would not want to drop this game. It would be costly.

Sharks back in top form

SHARKS V DEMONS

EAST Fremantle should have few problems maintaining the pressure on Subiaco for second position when they play Perth at Subiaco Oval on Saturday.

The Sharks have returned to their best form and it is difficult to present a winning case for the Demons.

However, Perth did not surrender meekly against West Perth last week and at the least coach Mal Brown will be looking for his team to be competitive. East Fremantle appear to have too much depth, experience and class for the Demons.

With rover David Bushell returning to his best form with a seven-goal haul last week and Clinton Browning reproducing some of his early season touch with nine goals, the Sharks could be back on the path of a second semi-final show-down with Claremont.

Eagles on the run to finals

THE West Coast Eagles have done the hard work that is needed to win a place in the final five in their initial VFL season.

Now it is a matter of consolidating in matches they should win.

In their last three games they have beaten Carlton and Hawthorn and between those two memorable victories came the very forgettable blitz by the Sydney Swans.

WEST COAST EAGLES V KANGAROOS

By beating two of the three leading contenders for premiership honours the Eagles have maintained their prospects of playing in the final series.

Now it is up to them to deal with their last four matches — all games that can be won — to ensure they are a part of the finals.

They were magnificent last Sunday when they beat Hawthorn by a point in a thrilling match at Subiaco Oval and on the strength of that performance they should beat lesser lights North Melbourne, Brisbane Bears, Melbourne and St Kilda in their last four matches.

However, as all WA football fans would be well aware, the expected rarely happens when assessing the Eagles' prospects.

Their form has been difficult to follow, winning games when given little chance and when expected to win have invariably been defeated.

UNIMPRESSIVE

When North Melbourne first played the Eagles, at Subiaco Oval on May 3, the Kangaroos were far from impressive in losing by 74 points, but they have since improved and are now sitting in fourth place.

Obviously the Eagles can expect a tougher contest on Friday night.

And lanky ruckman Laurie Keene could again hold the key to the WA team's prospects.

Keene will have to again bear the brunt of the workload in the ruck with a long-term knee injury keeping Phil Scott on the sidelines and Alex Ishchenko is likely to miss the match with a thigh strain.

Keene was superb against Hawthorn when his ability to win the ruck knocks enabled the Eagles to take the ball out of the centre consistently and he marked strongly around the ground.

The Eagles will require a similar effort against the 'Roos. Their ruck responsibility will rest squarely on John Mossop.

Young defender John Worsfold also performed strongly against the Hawks last week when he had the task of watching experienced ruck-rovers Gary Buckenara and Michael Tuck.

He is likely to be given the role of tagging Phil Krakouer this week.

In the first round clash Worsfold was given the first tagging role of his career and he successfully shut Phil Krakouer out of the contest.

The Krakouer brothers are again dangermen for the Eagles and if they can be nullified the Eagles will have taken positive steps towards victory and will continue their late surge at a place in the five.

The problem area for the Eagles for much of this season has been their lack of consistency in attack and they will again require strong contributions from John Gastev, Chris Lewis and Andrew Lockyer to repair that situation.

Lockyer accepted the role at full-forward last week and showed he could provide a long-term solution to the problem. He developed a fine understanding with Lewis as the pair combined to kick several goals.

Watson leads in ratings

Mark Watson

CONSISTENT Perth rover Mark Watson has shot to the lead in Westside Football's unique player ratings.

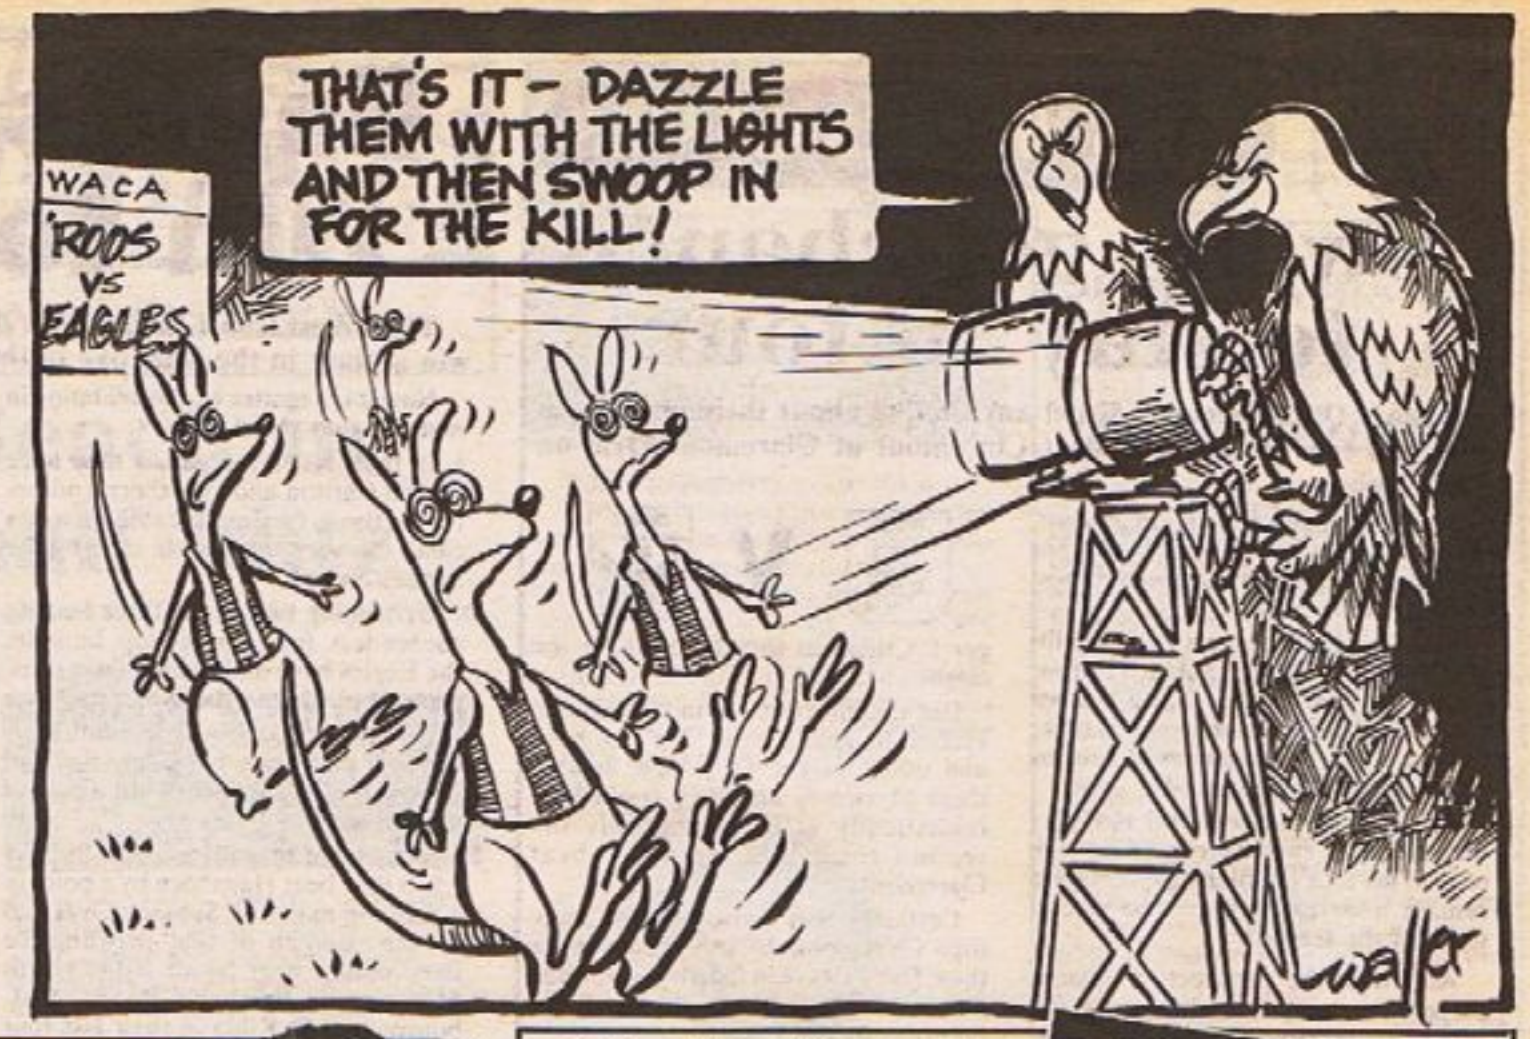
Watson has remained injury-free throughout the season to storm ahead of some early-season pacesetters with 121 points.

Brian Taylor, one of the quiet achievers in WAFL ranks, is running second on 117 points.

West Perth midfielder Peter Menaglio, leading the Falcons in fine style, is third with 116 points.

Other club leaders are Roger Kerr (East Fremantle) 114; Scott Watters (South Fremantle) 102; Grant Campbell (East Perth) 108; Mick Grasso (Swan Districts) 107; and Derek Kickett (Claremont) 112.

The Westside Ratings are WA's best guide to consistency with all players rated out of 10 each week. See page 21.



BENNETT'S BURST

By respected veteran football writer ROBERT BENNETT

Are the umpires biased against us?

IS there a VFL conspiracy against the West Coast Eagles?

There is a feeling among some members of the Eagles camp and the media that the umpires are a little biased against the Eagles.

It would be easy to dismiss such allegations as sour grapes.

But there are numerous examples of what's good for a Melbourne-based team is not good for the Eagles.

Ron Alexander is disturbed with the umpiring. He hinted at this at a press conference after the Hawthorn match. But he's in a situation where he dare not speak his mind on the umpires.

It is the inconsistency of the umpiring in tight games that is disconcerting.

So is it bad umpiring or have the umpires been instructed to deliberately make it tough for the Eagles?

Last Sunday, Hawthorn's Dermott Brereton was given a free kick after ducking into a tackle in the dying stages of the game.

Technically, it was there. It could have won the match for Hawthorn.

Yet shortly afterwards Chris Lewis almost had his head pulled off near the Eagles goal, but the umpires allowed play to go on.

ALTERCATION

Against Carlton, David Rhys-Jones was given a free kick right in front of goals as the Eagles fought desperately to hold their narrow lead in the closing stages of the game.

It came after an altercation with Chris Mainwaring, who should have been given the kick because of Rhys-Jones' antics.

Okay, you can go through heaps of decisions during a match and say those are selective.

But they are the kind of decisions which could have deprived the Eagles of victory, that has certain members of the media and the Eagles pointing the finger at umpires.

The umpires are one example. There are others of the VFL making it as tough as possible on the Eagles. For instance, why should the Eagles be forced to use an alternate jumper on their home ground as was the case against Hawthorn?

That's another thing that had Alexander spitting chips. Let's not kid ourselves, the VFL are not interested in a true national competition.

They only wanted to prop up their ailing competition by admitting clubs from other states — at a handsome entry fee.

The SANFL were smart. If there is to be a national competition, then SA will have to be part of it. I bet they don't rush in on the VFL's terms.

The restrictions placed on the number of players the Eagles could use is another example of the VFL not giving an inch.

Despite the knockers, a national competition is inevitable. And it is desirable. Just look what it has done for basketball.

But for that to happen, the VFL has to be demolished.

A national body needs to be set up and only 12 or 14 licenses granted and players should be thrown into a pool.

If an existing club, such as Carlton or the Sydney Swans, are accepted, then they should be allowed to have first option to retain a certain number of their current team, say 10.

DRAFT

The rest should then be selected through a draft or by rotation. There should be a grading system for players. For example, there could be three or four levels. The top level player could set between $60,000 and $100,000, the next $40,000 to $60,000 and the others $20,000 to $40,000.

A player's ranking could be determined on awards won, years of service etc. And the end of every two years, the rankings would be re-assessed.

They are only loose examples of what could be done.

The point I am making is, if there is to be a national competition then the iron grip the VFL currently has must be broken.

A truly national competition would even out the clubs. It would also make for a more interesting competition.

Australian Football was the winner

THE CIG Shield final last Sunday between Trinity College and Hamilton Senior High School was an outstanding game.

The young players have learnt that, through effort, rewards can be obtained. Both teams have had to face 'win or drop out' games in previous weeks and they survived the test.

The game was low-scoring due to the great mid-field pressure applied by both teams.

Trinity College displayed a dedicated and committed brand of team football that saw them achieve the ultimate reward — the CIG Shield.

Listening to their coach Ian McRae before and during the game was a thrill; he showed that he had the total respect and commitment of his players. They listened to every word and had a strict code of behaviour to play by. Any player who wished to argue or fight with the opposition was told he would be taken from the ground — not to return.

The game has rules and they must be followed by all Trinity players.

"Any extra aggression you want to display, do it by getting the ball," is coach McRae's message.

Coaches like him are the future development and growth of our game. Football has to provide a disciplined approach for all young players, as was seen in this grand final.

Hamilton SHS were endeavouring to win their second CIG final, but on the day weren't strong enough. The acceptance of defeat by their coach Brian Gray was magnificent.

He praised his team for giving their best and though disappointed, he never allowed criticism or abuse to occur.

CIG are to be complimented on their sponsorship of the game in secondary schools. This competition is growing every year and allowing Australian football to re-establish itself in secondary schools.

To all concerned in the CIG final, congratulations on a magnificent performance — the game of Australian football was the winner.

Shane follows a tough act

WATCHING young Perth mobile player Shane Cable play his first game against the Falcons last Saturday produced some similarities to the start of his famous father's career.

Barry Cable senior started his career 25 years ago, also against West Perth. In that game he played on the wing against the late Ron Bewick. Barry was 18 years of age.

Young Shane is a year younger — and a lot taller than his father. He has very good skills and loves the game — something his dad believes is essential to succeed.

Shane didn't know he was to make his debut until a team meeting on Friday night; a similar introduction as his father, who did not know he was playing until told by coach Ern Henfry at a team meeting the night before the game.

Barry senior went on to be best on the ground and then set about establishing himself as one of the game's greatest players.

Shane's first game did not see him reach the same heights, but his effort to get there has to be admired.

To be the son of one of the game's greatest players is an honour that sets high standards for the Cable boys, Shane and Barry junior.

Barry senior has always been aware of the need to assist his sons as they develop, but minimise the pressure placed on them.

No matter what he does, his football record sets a standard for critics to judge his sons.

Shane and Barry junior are tremendous examples of young men who can handle this pressure. Many other former champions' sons have never followed their father's footsteps as the road is too hard and the pressure too great.

Both boys are excellent young men and will continue to give their best in an effort to create their own futures in the football world.

DORRO'S DIARY

BY GRANT DORRINGTON

A lesson for our Rovers

CONGRATULATIONS must go to all the Eagles; their performance last Sunday was magnificent.

Playing against a Hawthorn team that Melbourne critics rate as one of the all-time best, after receiving a belting from the Sydney Swans, made their win even greater.

You can generally tell how the Eagles are going to perform by observing them in the first quarter.

Their best games this season have seen the players ferocious with their tackling and desire to get the ball right from the first bounce.

Tackling is perhaps the one skill of our game that is the key to success at any level. Tackling requires a commitment from the individual. When a team tackles well, they can bank on that oft-used word — luck. Luck comes to those who create their own chances by their endeavour.

The Eagles endeavour was outstanding. They never allowed Hawthorn to create their famous running game; applying physical pressure to their mobile division all day.

Though Hawks rover John Platten was tagged, he still showed what a top player he is. His capacity to run was unbelievable. Platten never stops working and must be rated as one of the game's best small men.

It must have been a lesson for Eagles rovers Wally Matera and David Hart to compete with Platten; learning first-hand the recipe for success at the highest level.

The two Eagles rovers have great natural flair and pace, but they don't work hard enough as yet.

Rovers are the key to the game with their ability to pick up the 'crumbs' around the ground, then use the ball to set up the loose man.

To become a force, the Eagles must have rovers who can work hard all game.

Let's hope our young rovers use the Platten experience to improve their football education. On their shoulders will ride the future of the Eagles for season '87.

BRENDAN'S A GOER TILL THE BELL

FALCONS utility man Brendan Bell has always impressed me with his never-say-die approach to his football.

Last Saturday Bell started the game in the back pocket in a Falcons team that looked disinterested and lethargic against the Demons.

At half-time, coach Bruce Monteath moved Bell into the centre; a move that changed the course of the game. His enthusiastic endeavour spread throughout the team, injecting his teammates with an urgency to run. The Falcons turned looming defeat into a well-earnt victory.

Bell is a coach's dream. He is always looking for a challenge and though he may never play for the Eagles, his totally dedicated approach would see him a very handy player in the VFL.

Brendan Bell ... exhausted but inspirational.

Television is here to stay

IT was once said that "horseless carriages, flying contraptions and the like" were no more than passing fads. They would never amount to anything.

The way football administration and many critics are looking at television and football, I get the feeling they haven't quite realised that, like it or not, the small screen is here to stay.

In the long run, it is more common than the radio broadcasts we have grown up with.

It will provide coverage for the people who like to look, but not be involved to the extent of going along.

SPECTATORS

The sooner administrators and critics adopt the "if you can't lick 'em, then join 'em" attitude, the quicker the situation will be resolved. They should be more intent of making the best use of the publicity and benefits associated with television than worrying about restricting it in the hope that its non-participation will enforce greater spectator numbers.

Darcy Farrell, a public relations consultant who was previously a senior executive, news editor and long-time Channel 7 man, knows the subject. In fact, there are few people who understand the impact of television, or can gauge public opinion, better than he can.

In the course of our conversation, he touched on the following points:

1. Television probably attracts more people to sport than it turns away. People who are not particularly interested, in terms of going along, can be tempted to watch at home.

2. Television can take or leave any sport and its participation is governed, in the main, by audience ratings. Once a particular sport drops in popularity, then it has no real value to the small screen.

3. There will be reasonable crowds at the finals, with or without television coverage. No cameras and the only spectators will be those at the ground. With TV, the onlookers will be many thousands more and that is beneficial to the game.

4. Support for the Eagles shows that most football followers give preference to the games played at VFL level, which is far better than the local competition. This has now become a fact of life and will remain so.

5. Teams that don't perform will become more of a liability to the leagues that sponsor them. Matches between bottom sides don't attract good crowds and certainly have limited television appeal.

6. Football leagues should try and recoup some of the losses incurred by low attendances through paid advertising. It would have to be a more intensive selling campaign than exists at present.

7. Television presenters should work to show the game in the best possible light. Knockers are detrimental to the welfare of any crusade.

8. More has to be done to attract youngsters to football. Extensions of "free tickets" and the like should be looked at.

9. Serious "think tank" sessions should be organised and the ideas bandied about to come up with solutions that will weld football and television together more harmoniously.

FROM WHERE I SIT

AT a Wildcats basketball match recently — where the ballyhoo was about as Americanised as you can get, but which obviously has a lot of attraction for the big crowd — I got to thinking that football could pick up a pointer or two in relation to the band and cheer squad.

Why not have a sponsored competition for the best band and cheer squad combination?

Each club could organise a group, deck them out in club colours and expand on the idea of just a team of girls.

Bring in the music and routines as well and they would be good to look at and listen to.

INTERSTATE UPDATE

From our Eastern States correspondents

Coach shows his anger after win

MELBOURNE'S 54-point victory over the Brisbane Bears at the MGC last Saturday was not good enough for coach John Northey.

So much so that as his players were celebrating their win with the club song in the changerooms, he barked that their performance did not warrant joyous revelry.

"I told them they had nothing to be happy about," Northey said.

"They should have won by 10 or 15 goals. They should have annihilated them.

"They've got to learn to go in for the kill."

Northey said the attitude of his players wasn't helped by Melbourne supporters.

"I took Rod Grinter off because of a lack of discipline and they (the supporters) were clapping.

"Everyone around the place has got to become more ruthless.

"We set Brisbane up for a thrashing and didn't go on with it.

VFL Report

"I was especially disappointed with Brisbane's two goals in the time-on period of the last quarter.

"Just imagine if he were put out of the final five by 0.1 per cent because of those two goals, and make no mistake percentage is going to be important.

While Northey was displeased, Bears coach Peter Knights was even more upset.

Knights said that for the first time this season he had to question the endeavour of his players and he would search the local Queensland league to find the players who could 'do the job'.

McKellar on way to recovery

RICHMOND rover Allan McKellar — crushed at the bottom of a pack of players against Collingwood two weeks ago — is on the mend.

The courageous young Tiger backed into this pack in a brave attempt to win the ball, and for his efforts he received two broken ribs and a punctured lung.

But the seriousness of these injuries have not prevented the chirpy 20-year-old from making a speedy recovery.

On the night after the game, one of his first visitors was team-mate Terry Wallace.

Expecting to see McKellar in a sick and sorry state, Wallace got the surprise of his life.

Said McKellar: "They gave me something for the pain and I was starving."

"Plough (Terry Wallace) came in to see me and broke up laughing because I was laying there with a pizza, a bottle of Coke and watching television."

Although he finds it difficult to walk any distance, McKellar has been advised by doctors he should fully recover in two months. In fact he intends to be running laps within four weeks.

McKellar has played eight senior games with the Tigers this season, after just one appearance last season.

Allan McKellar ... smiling again.

Big job for Hepburn

NORTH Melbourne recruit Mark Hepburn finally got his chance in the North Melbourne league side last Saturday and kicked a goal with his first kick.

But the 18-year-old from Claremont could do nothing to prevent the 'Roos from becoming St Kilda's fourth successive victim.

A tall player, Hepburn started on the forward line, but was later switched to centre-half-back in an attempt to curb St Kilda's strong marking half-forward Stewart Loewe.

It was a big assignment for the first gamer, but he showed enough to suggest the $75,000 recruit could be worth every penny that was laid out for him.

Magpies change mind over report

COLLINGWOOD changed their mind about lodging an official complaint with the VFL this week, after an alleged incident between umpire Peter Cameron and Magpie Shane Kerrison last Saturday.

The incident occurred during the second quarter of Collingwood's clash with Footscray at Western Oval.

It has been alleged that Cameron abused Kerrison with bad language after he had complained about not getting a free kick.

Collingwood coach Leigh Matthews, under threat of a heavy fine if he publicly criticises an umpire, said: "We will be making an official complaint.

"I'm not complaining, I'm just telling you what happened."

Matthews said that the player was told that if he didn't shut up he wouldn't get another free kick for the rest of the day.

"I have checked it with two other players who were near the incident who have confirmed what was said," Matthews said.

Cameron (35) has umpired the past two grand finals and recently celebrated his 200th senior game.

He is regarded as one of the league's most experienced umpires.

BOMBERS' COMEBACK

ESSENDON'S resurgence as a VFL power took another step in the right direction last weekend — despite losing their second successive match.

Despite the one point loss to second-placed Carlton, the good news was the successful comeback of ruck-rover Tim Watson.

Since injuring a knee at the beginning of last season, Watson has played just three senior games and some have doubted whether he could recapture his former greatness.

This query was answered in the best possible way last Saturday.

Though not best on ground, Watson showed enough of his obvious football talent to suggest that he will once again be a dominant force for Essendon.

His lack of match fitness showed and late in the game, Watson began to tire, but in typical fashion he raised a big effort in the dying minutes.

With just eight minutes remaining Watson gathered from the bottom of a pack of players and took off for goal, steering his shot through the middle to put the Bombers five points ahead.

However Carlton came back to win 10.10 to Essendon's 10.9.

Essendon coach Kevin Sheedy said he was pleased to see Watson get through the game.

"It was great for Essendon fans and as always he gave his all," said Sheedy.

"It was great to see him get through the game, especially when you think it was virtually his first for two seasons."

Magro should keep the job

THE rumours are around — as they always are at this time of the season — that South Fremantle coach Stan Magro should be replaced for next year.

What a load of rubbish!

I've seen South twice recently, against Claremont and East Fremantle and with the players available, they did a reasonable job.

There is no substitute for experience and while Magro has some young talent, he needs more experience on the field and talented experience at that.

It's difficult to preach confidence when you have lost 15 in a row; the players have forgotten how to win.

A third-quarter slump against East Fremantle last week saw them lose concentration — and the game.

Magro has the patience, the football knowhow and the respect of the players. A coach is only as good as his players and the depth and quality in a club.

Many a good coach has served a tough apprenticeship like Magro. Don't worry, Magro will make it.

Demons glory is revived!

LAST Saturday provided a trip down memory lane for many Perth footballers. It was a night when old stories were rekindled (and expanded) and when many old faces were reunited for the first time in years.

It was the first reunion of players from Perth's premiership years of 1966, 67, 68, plus administrators and support staff.

The organisers, Ray Lawrence, Graham Ramshaw, Greg Brehaut and Mal Atwell, had rounded up almost everyone involved, including grand final umpires Ray Scott and Ray Montgomery, who received the customary "boo" when they were introduced.

Players travelled from country and interstate for the evening with men like Allan "Chubby" Stiles and Ray Mills finding "business" reasons to come from Sydney, as did Frank Pyke from Wollongong, where he is teaching at the University.

It was a great night, with players and their wives enjoying the hospitality of the coach Mal Atwell, who hosted the show at his Carlisle Hotel.

There would have been a few "ordinary" efforts if Mal had called Sunday morning training!

Platten earns the Hawks accolades

Subiaco Oval last Sunday produced a great football contest and a stirring Eagles victory.

But it also enabled fans to see Hawthorn's John Platten produce a superb display of gutsy roving. His appetite for hard work, his desire to get in under the packs, to run tirelessly and finish off around the goals was terrific.

A recent article in the Melbourne Herald said that some people at Hawthorn were paying Platten the ultimate tribute by comparing him with former captain and roving champion, the late Peter Crimmins, who lost a two-year fight against cancer in September, 1976.

Having had the privilege to call Crimmins a personal friend and a competitive opponent, I agree that many of the football comparisons are certainly true.

Both are true rovers, both similar in stature and possess good skills and attack the ball without fear.

Nobody typified the Hawthorn spirit of guts, determination and the will to win more than Crimmins and from what I saw of Platten, he has the same attributes.

Now that the Hawks have broken the drought of producing a Brownlow Medallist (Robert DiPierdomenico last year) they seem set to bring up a double.

Recruiting for the Eagles

LAST week I discussed the possibility of key position player Peter Sumich (South Fremantle) making it into the Eagles squad next year.

I saw Sumich again last week and his form, especially in the first half, was superb. He would have to be very high on the priority list.

Excluding the possibility of an expatriot coming back from Melbourne (and there could be a couple in the wind to add experience to the Eagles) the choice from the WAFL revolves around the young and inexperienced players.

With the exception of Sumich, there are not too many key-position players.

Players like Derek Kickett, Brent Hutton, Todd Breman, Clint Browning, Ray Sterrett, Richard Graham, Guy McKenna, Ben Allan and Don Pyke will all come under consideration.

Long-term recurring injuries to Dean Warwick, Darren Bennett and Peter Davidson may force them out of the squad, making way for not just four changes, but seven.

Talent...and stability

ONE doesn't like to go back in time, but there are a few interesting statistics from those three permiership years.

There were only 28 players used in the three grand final sides, which showed that Perth had great stability and talent in those years, with many reserves players never getting an opportunity.

Twelve out of the 28 played in all three premierships.

Schoolboys in great revival

THE WA under-16 football team recovered from a poor first quarter to crush the Guildford Grammar first 18 by 50 points at Bassendean Oval last Saturday.

Guildford were leading at the first change by five points, but they missed several easy opportunities and the margin could have been greater.

The schoolboys side rallied in the second term, keeping Guildford scoreless while kicking 3.6.

With the match virtually over by three-quarter time, Glen Jakovich, who was shifted from the wing to full-forward, kicked four goals to end any chance of a Guildford revival.

Schoolboys coach Ric Evans said the first quarter was disappointing. But after that, he was pleased with their endeavour and the way they adapted to different positions.

"We are constantly trying players in different positions to test their versatility," Evans said.

SHUFFLED AROUND

"In the September Australian schoolboys championships, the team has to play seven matches in eight days, so they will need to be shuffled around as we get injures and as players get tired."

Ruck-rover Kane Morphett continued his excellent form, working hard around the ground and his strong marking was a telling factor.

Marcus Seecamp, in his first game back from a broken arm, justified the selectors faith in him with a great game at full-forward and on the half-forward flank, kicking three goals.

Other good players were full-back Garry French, centre-half-back Brad Renton, centre-half-forward Steven O'Reilly and back-pocket Darren Keeler.

O'Reilly and ruckman Lee Walker also kicked two goals.

Guildford's best were wingman Paul Ottaviano, half-back Darren Skinner, rover Wayne Shearer, half-back Kingsley Brown, ruckman Andrew Wheeler and wingman Nick Newnham.

The public school was also hampered by the absence of captain and Teal Cup player Matthew Stephens, out with tonsalitis.

This Friday night, the State schoolboys play Scotch College at the WACA Ground as a curtain-raiser to the big West Coast Eagles/North Melbourne clash.

For Jakovich, centre-half-forward Preston Holland and centre-half-back Marco Tassone, it will be the second week in a row they played ahead of an Eagles fixture.

The three boys were all in last Sunday's CIG grand final; the latter in the winning Trinity College side, while the former two were in the Hamilton Senior High team.

Lions win in juniors

SUBIACO, with Shay Hicks, Ross Jones and Michael Frenchman in top form, beat Claremont at Subiaco Oval in round 18 of the R and I Little League last Saturday.

Best for the Tigers were Nick Moody, Doug Bennett and David Yaccob.

West Perth beat Perth at Leederville Oval. The Falcons best were Colin Chivello, David Antoluv and Paul Hopkins, while for Perth Brett Nichols, Joseph Shaw and Bradley Hallons all tried hard.

Craig Johnson, Adam Clark and Garrick Morgan led East Fremantle to victory in the Derby at East Fremantle Oval. Aaron Shirra, Troy Redford and Ben Hodge worked hard for the Bulldogs, but could not do enough to prevent the loss.

Swan Districts proved too good for East Perth with Michael Boyswett, Patrick Carney and Laughlan Spicer doing well. East Perth's best were Anthony Luca, Brett Knitter and Shannon McDonald.

On Sunday, the West Coast Eagles (represented by Mandurah) were convincing winners over Hawthorn (Koondoola).

WAFL UNDER-19 ROUND-UP

YOUNG FALCONS IN TOP FORM

WEST Perth were easy 79-point winners over Perth at Leederville Oval last Saturday.

The side contained several players with league and reserves experience who should be available to represent the Falcons in the under-19 finals.

The players include Peter Zelesco (who played one Kresta Blinds Cup game), Mark McAlister (several reserves appearances and one Kresta Cup game), Steve Munro (two league games), Paul Sanzone (a solid performer in his single Kresta Cup appearance) and Kevin Burns (a regular reserves player this season).

Munro was the most impressive of these players last Saturday. He was the side's best and capped off a great day by kicking three goals.

McAlister was West Perth's third best player. He contributed strongly in the midfield, using his long, telling left foot kicks to good advantage. At one point this season he was on the verge of league selection.

Sanzone kicked two goals in a dangerous performance and he looms as key player in the finals.

Zelesco, a utility player, was effective and Burns put in a typically solid performance in defence.

The Falcons are sitting in fourth place on the premiership table and, though it will be difficult, a grand final berth is not out of the question.

Four sides in the WAFL under-19 competition are resigned to the fact that they will finish in the bottom half of the premiership table.

The gap between the top four sides and the bottom four sides has been painfully obvious.

However, plenty of talented players have developed the lower sides and this is encouraging for 1988.

Subiaco unearthed four Teal Cup players who look capable of playing at a high level of football in 1988.

Damien Read, a rover, has been in outstanding form this season, Steve Rosich has shown great potential on a wing and in the forward line, Brett Heady has been dogged and reliable in a variety of positions and John Cooper has shown touches of class at centre-half-forward.

South Fremantle rovers Brett Genefini and Phil Clancy have been very impressive, centreman Phil Lynn has produced some spectacular performances and defender Nick D'Angelo has also been solid.

CIG SHIELD UPDATE

CIG State Manager, Dennis Myler presents the winner's shield to Trinity College captain Damon Charushenko (left). Also pictured is Kim Van Der Weide, of Trinity, who won the CIG Medal for the best player in the grand final.

CIG Shield to Trinity

THE Trinity College side emerged as champions when the 1987 CIG Shield competition came to an end in front of a big crowd at Subiaco Oval last Sunday.

Trinity and Hamilton Senior High were the competitors in a hard-fought and typically aggressive final.

The committment shown by both sides was commendable, but eventually it was Trinity who showed superior skill and determination to win by 23 points.

The victors were well-served by Kim Van Der Weide, who took several timely marks at centre-half-forward; half-back flankers Damon Charushenko and Stephen Nowicki, who were impassable all day; Robert Copobianco, elusive and quick on the half-forward line and Paul Ganfield, who gave a hard-working display of ruck-roving.

For Hamilton, none tried harder that State schoolboys representative Glen Jakovich, who really rose to the occasion.

Daniel Connolly produced some brilliant football, centreman Jason Fowler continued his outstanding form, while Matthew Verney fought the game out to the end.

RESULTS

TRINITY	2.1	3.5	4.7	6.9	(45)
HAMILTON	0.2	0.2	0.2	3.4	(22)

GOALS: TRINITY: Capobianco 2, Van Der Weide, Ganfield, Roe, Lofts 1. HAMILTON: Jakovich, Fulton, Smith 1.

BEST: TRINITY: Van Der Weide, Charushenko, Capobianco, Ganfield, Nowicki. HAMILTON: Jakovich, Connolly, Fowler, Verney.

CIG have to be commended for their continued involvement with school football.

The CIG competition for schoolboys under 15 years of age started in 1983 when what seemed like a mammoth 34 schools take part.

This year 99 schools, all but two of those in the metropolitan area, entered the competition, which culminated with Trinity preventing Hamilton from winning back-to-back grand finals.

The CIG Shield runs for more than 12 weeks and CIG subsidise costs for all teams travelling to and from the country, provide one football for every school taking part and also provide the medals and shield on grand final day.

The CIG medal for the best player in the grand final went to Van Der Weide.

A regular column about the Men in White

Kicking rule still exists

THE kicking-in-danger rule has drawn much comment from the public and the media this season.

The rule still exists and has been interpreted in a slightly different manner to previous seasons.

A player WILL be penalised if he is endangering an opposition player by soccering or kicking the ball.

For example, if the ball is on the ground and a player soccers the ball he might not be penalised despite a desperate dive from an opponent.

But, if there appears to be some genuine danger to the player going for the ball then a free kick will be given.

The umpire is required to make his own interpretation depending on the incident because there are no set guidelines stating how dangerous an incident must be before a player is penalised.

It is pointless giving a free kick every time somebody soccers the ball in close proximity to an opponent because on most occasions there is no danger to the player.

In fact it is common for a player to stick a hand near the ball if he sees that he may get a free kick for kicking in danger.

IT'S A MARK

WET conditions can change the interpretation of certain rules — particularly marking.

It is accepted that a player will be given a degree of leniency when trying to take a mark on a wet day.

It does vary, depending on the conditions and the umpire who must make a decision in a split second.

Football is a winter game and there are always going to be wet days so flexibility and leniency must be shown by the men in white.

Carey Park go back to the top

CAREY Park produced a 12-goal last quarter to beat South Bunbury 26.18 to 16.14 and regain top spot in the South West League on Sunday.

Goal kicking machine Kernutt Thorne (12 goals) was again best for the victors.

He has now kicked 81 goals from 12 games and leads the National Mutual goalkicking table by 39 goals.

Others to show out for Carey Park were ruck-rover Stan Wills (five goals) and wingman Todd Nelson.

South Bunbury were best served by half-forward Ian Bennell, Teal Cup representative Greg Jones (centre-half-back and ruck-rover David Anderson.

A disappointing Donnybrook (9.8) were thrashed by final-five contenders Bunbury (23.18) in a lack-lustre game.

Goals were evenly shared for Bunbury with captain Steve Larsson, Wayne Davis and Mitchell Walker all kicking four. Tony Deighton played strongly in the unaccustomed role of centre-half-forward.

IMPASSABLE

The half-back line of Nixon, Allen and Eaton proved almost impassable for the Donnybrook forwards.

Mines Rovers (26.12) comfortably accounted for Busselton (15.15) with rover Dean Rakich capping a best-on-ground performance with six goals.

Phil Brown (six goals) and Paul Moses (five goals) also played strongly.

The young Harvey-Brunswick side annihilated Boyanup-Capel-Dardanup 28.13 to 10.4.

Centreman Sam Strano had 40 possessions to be best for Harvey, while former Swan Districts rover Barry Kimberley also contributed strongly.

Augusta-Margaret-River tumbled out of the top five after only a one-week stay when they were soundly beaten by Collie 15.15 to 9.9

Albany helped by the draw

REIGNING Southern Districts Football League premiers Albany Railways have been saved by the luck of the draw.

They were upset 12.13 to 11.9 against North Albany on Sunday, but should retain their second semi-final spot as they meet the bottom two sides in the last two games.

Albany Royals thrashed South Mt Barker 26.27 to 5.10 and North Mt Barker struggled to beat Denmark 13.15 to 7.16.

Pingelly keep final four battle alive

SEVENTH-placed Pingelly caused an upset in the Upper Great Southern League when they comfortably beat fourth-placed Wickepin.

Their 25.13 to 10.12 win kept the fight for the final four wide open with four teams now chasing one vacant spot in the finals.

Competition leaders Towns (25.20) continued on their merry way when they easily accounted for Wagin (10.17).

An improved Lake Grace (17.7) put up a good fight against second-placed Railways (20.18), but ultimately lacked sufficient skills to defeat their more talented opponents.

Williams (27.15) consolidated their position in the top four when they cruised to an 85-point victory against a disappointing West Arthur (14.8).

Falcons hold second spot

PORT Hedland's second-spot ambitions received a temporary setback when they were beaten by top side Karratha 12.11 (83) to 8.9 (57) in the Emu Export Lager North Pilbara Football League last weekend.

Before the round Port Hedland Rovers and the Karratha Falcons were level on 32 points.

However, the Falcons are now clearly in second place following their 17.24 (126) to 7.10 (52) win over South Hedland.

Wickham and Dampier fought out a close game with Wickham eventually running out winners 17.13 (115) to 14.16(100).

Swan Districts reserves and league coaches together ... Ed Blackaby (left) and John Todd.

KNOW YOUR CLUB

Todd ready for another era

SWAN Districts announced last week that they are confident long-standing coach John Todd will remain at the club in 1988.

Todd has been at Bassendean for the past 11 years, taking them from bottom to consecutive premierships in 1982-83-84 and they now appear destined for more flags with a totally new combination.

The young Swans boast some exciting talent and have surprised many critics by staying in the four, despite collecting the wooden spoon last year.

The improvement of Swans in 1987 is testimony to the nine-times State coach, 1955 Sandover Medallist and former Australian coach.

Todd has no secret formula; but to get into a John Todd team you must possess enormous character as a player.

This, with a degree of talent and ability, is how the coaching legend has twice rebuilt Swans.

Selection is done over two meetings.

The selectors — John Hayes (former State player and league runner), John Cooper (former club president), Brian Dawson (former player), Ed Blackaby (former player and reserves coach), Wayne Simms (former Perth and Swans player) and Todd — meet on Thursday to choose the 23.

They then meet on Friday night after training to reduce this number by 3.

"During the meeting we discuss a lot of things," Todd said.

"We assess all the players and the opposition and between the six of us, we throw around a lot of other ideas as well," he said.

Cooper, who was president when Todd rebuilt a beleaguered Swan Districts in the late 1970s and early '80s, says Todd's record speaks for itself.

"A lot of coaches can achieve success with a team," he says. "But the m[illegible] of a great coach is a man who takes [illegible]em back to the top after that seemingly inevitable slump that always befalls the top clubs.

"Swans were down last year, but we are back now. He's done a wonderful job."

The evidence is written in the Swan Districts league list every week.

Regular league players Paul Gow, Troy Ugle and Geoff Passeri are still young enough to play under 19 football, as is outstanding reserves player Mark Quinlivan.

In addition, Danny Penny, Bob De Graaf, Andy Holmes, Mick Grasso and Darren Williams are all 19 or 20 years of age — one season out of colts.

Micale renews old ties

UNDER-19 coach Tony Micale has a wealth of playing and coaching experience behind him.

Since 1967, he has played at five clubs and coached at three. He has had many highlights — two association medals in the Sunday league, an umpire's medal for the fairest and best player in the 1974 WAFL second semi-final, a premiership with East Fremantle and a runner-up trophy for the club's fairest and best in the same year.

League coach John Todd had an enormous influence on Micale's development as a coach and a player.

He first played under Todd in 1967 at South Fremantle, but moved to South Perth in 1971 due to a lack of opportunities with the Bulldogs and, once again, his coach was Todd.

In 1974, he followed Todd to East Fremantle where he played 80 games before a serious knee injury curtailed his league career in 1978.

Between 1979 and 1984 Micale played or coached at Sunday league clubs Kwinana, Armadale, Rockingham and Melville.

A fireman by trade, he led Melville to a premiership in 1984 despite being called away to a Cockburn Sound oil spill on the eve of the second semi-final.

After that success, he took on the under-19 coaching role at Swan Districts, where his emphasis is on developing league players.

Skills are a major priority, as is discipline and character-building within the team.

He believes young players need to be mentally strong if they are to reach league football.

Already players like Greg Walker, Geoff Passeri, Andy Holmes, Bob De Graaf and Darren Williams have progressed to league football after being coached by Micale.

Tony Micale ... plenty of coaching experience.

Blackaby has outstanding credentials

IT'S not surprising that Ed Blackaby has been able to make the transition from player to coach.

He was an outstanding footballer, firstly for Manuka, in Canberra and secondly for Swan Districts.

He played 164 games for Manuka, represented the ACT 25 times, captained Manuka in 1976, won the club fairest and best award five times (1970, 71, 72, 74, 79), played in five winning grand final sides. And, to cap it off, he won the Mulroony Medal for the fairest and best footballer in the competition in 1977.

In 1980, he was enticed to West Australia by Swan Districts.

He played some excellent games for Swans, before a serious illness weakened him to the point where he had to be hospitalised. However, he did manage to play league football again and for this achievement he was honoured with the Barry Cable Award for courage.

Fortunately, he is now back to full fitness and for the last three seasons he has been the reserves coach.

In 1985, the side finished runners-up and last year they finished fourth.

His team is currently sitting fourth spot on the premiership table and should play off in this season's finals.

Wishing all the best to "Swans" from . . .

SUNDAY SCENE

Sunday

Bill Wake's weekly round-up of Sunday League matches.

Task Force wants new direction

THE Task Force report on the future of Sunday Football was unveiled at a meeting of all affiliated clubs at the Gosnells Football and Sportsmen's Club Inc last Sunday.

Members of the Task Force, which conducted the detailed examination of Sunday Football, were chairman Michael O'Halloran (a current director of the league), Brian Cook (the WAFL general manager development), Simon Leunig (from the Department for Sport and Recreation) and Trevor Clarey (corporate planning manager at the WA Police Department).

Four major recommendations were proposed:

- That the Sunday Football League alter the existing competition to a three-tiered competition in 1988 — tier one: premier league, tier two: major league, tier three: amateur league.
- Salary caps be introduced.
- Affiliation fees be restructured.
- All clubs to have equal voting rights.

The first tier (Premier League) would consist of the top 10 existing clubs who meet the stipulated criteria.

The second tier (Major League) would consist of the remaining six clubs plus additional clubs who wish to affiliate with the SFL.

SATURDAYS

The third tier (Amateur League) would be made up of the present Saturday competition, to be played on Saturday afternoons, or as directed, consisting of one team.

The Premier and Major league clubs would field league, reserves and colts teams.

Other recommendations include:

- A maximum of 10 clubs in each tier.
- Promotion/Relegation: That promotion/ relegation occur at the end of each season, subject to approval by the Sunday Football League. Two clubs shall have the opportunity to be promoted to the Premier league, being:

1) the side finishing first at the end of home and away games; and

2) the premiers.

If these two sides are the same, then the side finishing second at the end of home and away games would be eligible for promotion.

The bottom two sides of the Premier league would be relegated to the Major league.

A side wishing to be promoted must satisfy certain criteria before promotion will be approved by the SFL Board of Directors.

Criteria for Premier League:

- Proven financial, administrative and on field capabilities.
- Suitable premises and facilities.
- Programme to foster junior development in local districts.
- Proven record of commitment and co-operation with the Sunday Football League.
- The ranking of clubs using the weighted points system be used to determine which club will initially be in the Premier league.

LET'S GO FOR 20 TEAMS

A personal view by BILL WAKE

CERTAIN aspects of the Task Force report should be adopted for the future development of Sunday football.

Salary caps, new affiliation fees structure and an increase to 20 teams should all be accepted.

But I am opposed to "division" football.

The structure for 1988 should be a 20-team competition playing each other on a once only basis.

This would provide 19 weeks of football with a final round series with a final five played

This would fit nicely into local council requirements regarding utilisation of ovals.

Since the formation of the legue in 1984, eleven individual teams at league level have played in the final round series.

Only Gosnells, Kelmscott, Applecross, Kwinana and Fremantle have yet to taste the final-round football since 1984.

If the competition is to be split into two sections, then each section should be a separate football competition with no promotion or relegation option available.

WAFL RESERVES ROUND-UP

with Ben Stinga

Young Tiger on way back

CLAREMONT will closely monitor the training form and fitness of talented reserves ruckman/forward Craig Slarke, who has been sidelined with a knee injury since the Kresta Blinds Cup Final.

The Claremont reserves side is assured of a place in the final four and if they can maintain their excellent recent form they could slip into second spot on the premiership table.

Slarke is an important cog in the line-up and officials will give him every opportunity to prove his fitness before the finals.

Reserves coach John Dimmer is full of praise for the youngster and says he would have been close to winning a league berth had it not been for the untimely injury.

The former Albany player stands around the 190cm (6ft 3in) mark, yet he has the mobility to create opportunities once the ball hits the ground.

Teal Cup pair into reserves

SUBIACO have promoted two former Teal Cup players from their under-19 side to the reserves in recent weeks.

Teal Cup players Damien Read and Graeme Garnaut have acquitted themselves well.

Read, a former Ocean Ridge junior who joined the Lions this season, dominated in the under-19's and earned Teal Cup selection. He is a hard-working rover with quality skills, through he does hold on to the ball a little too long when eluding opponents.

Garnaut, a tall ruckman, represented West Australia at Teal Cup level in 1986. He is well proportioned, quite agile and has a long and accurate kick. However, he must become more physical if he is to compete against experienced ruckmen.

PRESSING CLAIMS

CLAREMONT'S Brad Pollock has been impressive in his first season of reserves football in West Australia.

Pollock tried out with Collingwood pre-season, but could not gain a berth in their senior squad.

So far he has not been able to gain a league spot with Claremont despite his excellent reserves form. But officials are impressed with Pollock and it appears likely that he will get opportunities next season.

North Beach in second-half blitz

A REVITALISED North Beach demolished Old Wesley by 50 points last week, after trailing at half-time.

A GRADE REPORT
by Trevor Schorer

The Tigers were without their two leading ruckmen, Higgins and Kiely and looked to be under-manned. But this was overcome by the great display by Gary Tait and Jay Wilheim, who filled the ruck roles.

North coach Noel Knights has also hit form at the right time and combined with Dave Perry to set up full-forward Paul Bidstrup, who kicked eight goals.

The best player on the ground was undoubtedly wingman Phil Davenport, who was magnificent in a display that must have earned him top votes.

Nollamara, led by the all-class Ed Bencic, were far too good for North Fremantle, doubling their score to win by 69 points.

Bencic, Little and Warner were named best, but Nollamara had many fine players and teamwork was the reason for the big win.

Nollamara are over the hard part of the season and top spot is certainly theirs with only University and Wembley left to play.

Trinity-Aquinas kept themselves in the finals race with a 22-point win over Wembley.

Once again it was the consistent ruck-rover Phil Green who was running hard and setting up play, receiving good support from Langer and Calvin.

Wembley, just playing out the season, were competitive through Menzel, Gava and rover Kevin Symonds could cause an upset in the last two games.

Mt Lawley were put under pressure by bottom side Innaloo, who face relegation unless they can notch a quick scalp. The margin in the end was only 20 points.

Strong man Tony Williams was in spectacular form, marking everything that came his way while Gerard Kearney was solid across the middle of the ground.

Innaloo were desperate, especially Livingston, Yates and the evergreen Wirth and relegation would be an injustice as they proved they are still worthy of A-grade status.

Scarborough got up in a tough encounter over a determined University by 13 points.

Scarborough, who have been inconsistent this season, are starting to hit form at this stage of the season and will be a danger.

This week's vital round will be highlighted by the match between North Beach and North Fremantle in which the Port side appear to have the incentive and the players to win.

HIGHLIGHTS

G-GRADE

WANNEROO kicked a mammoth 40.14 to defeat WAIT at South Oval. The Roos played powerhouse football from the first bounce and did not allow WAIT into the game at any stage. WAIT can now only start rebuilding for next season.

K-GRADE

BOTTOM side Bassendean defeated Melville by 33 points to take some pressure off them and religation next season. While Jubalee Park gave Bassendean the home ground advantage their up-forward performance was just too good for the Melville defence. Inaccuracy at goals by the Bassendean side could prove costly to them because percentage will play a big part in determining the wooden spooners in this grade this year.

L-GRADE

COCKBURN Lakes took a one game break at the top of the ladder following their win over Wanneroo and Redcliffe's upset win over Rockingham. These two games were crucial this week as Cockburn has a bye in the last round, whilst Rockingham's two remaining games are against the 8th and 9th placed sides respectively. Should they win both of these games it would again be percentage which will decide top spot.

G-GRADE

NOLLAMARA defeated a much-improved Muresk by 12 points. This win consolidates Nollamara's spot on top of the ladder. With only two games to go the Roos hold a two game break plus 106% advantage. Fifth spot on the ladder could go either way between Bayswater and Ocean Ridge. Bayswater have a two game break on Ocean Ridge but have a very hard last two games whilst Ocean Ridge have an easy run home and hold a better percentage than Bayswater.

C-GRADE

COOLBINA Yokine moved to 6th spot equal on points with University No. 2 at 5th position. Coolbina Yokine have Applecross and Swan Athletic to play while Uni have top side Nollamara and Morley. Unless there is an upset in these games again percentage will decide who will play in the elimination final. The top four places in this grade are already finalised.

'A' COLTS cellar-dwellers North Beach' upset Old Wesley with a giid win set up by Brad Smith (ruck-rover), Gavin Palmer, centreman Dean Jones and Steve Frazer. North's can lose the wooden spoon if they down North Fremantle this week.

COLTS FINALS

ALL club officials should take note that due to the shortage of D colts teams the finals have been reduced to a final four only. These games will be played as follows: August 22 1st and 2nd semi finals; August 29 preliminary finals; September 5 grand finals.

All clubs taking part in these finals will be notified of grounds in due course.

CLUB INFORMATION

CLUB RUNNERS

CLUB officials please note that in all final round games only properly dressed runners (gold top, black track suit bottom, shirt must have name of club and "runner" printed on back) will be permitted to officiate in that role. In 1988, runners in all amateur games throughout the season will have to be cleared and identified as per the by-laws, with the management enforcing it strongly.

TONY ROMPOTIS — 150 GAMES

THE youngest player to reach this milestone for the Hammersley club. The centreman has been vice-captain for the last three years in the seniors and has won the C-grade fairest and best, and only injuries have hampered greater goals.

He was a member of 1982 D-grade premiership and has won numerous other awards. He has served on the committee and was club-president in 1986.

MILESTONES

SHANE BROWN — 100 GAMES

SHANE Brown is a founding member of the 'Numbats'. The club was formed in 1980 by a handful of friends after a social gathering.

Shane has been a driving force in the club, serving and assisting in most committees. His only break in playing was for two years when business commitments took him to London.

Shane has been a member of the club's top side i.e. C-grade and is only the third person to become a life member to the Numbats and the second to play 100 games.

MEDAL DINNER

PLAYERS, officials and supporters of amateur football are invited to attend the annual WAAFL medal presentation dinner.

All grades fairest and best medals will be presented starting 7pm on Wednesday August 26 at the Wembley Lodge, Cambridge Street.

Clubs are advised that there are limited tickets available per club, with the cost being $20 (inclusive meal and drinks — not spirits) per ticket.

Please contact your club official for ticket requirements by August 12. There will be no more ticket sales after August 19 with no door sales.

It should also be noted that strict dress requirements will be adhered to. Members must be neatly attired and persons wearing tracksuits, jeans or sneakers etc. will not be admitted.

UNIVERSITY

UNIVERSITY "A" grade colts are looking to winning their 50th consecutive game should they defeat Nollamara at McGillvray Oval this weekend. Ironically the last game Uni lost was to Nollamara back on May 25, 1985.

"The students" colts coach for the past five years, Dr Bruce Robinson, believes this milestone can be attained and the season then finished off with a premieship flag.

Players to have helped Uni towards this goal and whom they will look forward to being part of their premiership side are captain Darren Bandfield, James Lindle, Callum Frazer and Jeremy Pell.

reports on the B-grade scene

Good wins to West Coast and Mounties

WEST Coast and Mt Lawley gave further proof that they are likely grand finalists with convincing victories over aspiring finals contenders in Saturday's B-grade games.

West Coast stormed to a 12-goal victory over fourth-placed Bayswater, while Mt Lawley were equally impressive in despatching fifth-placed Collegians Old Scotch by 76 points.

Both West Coast and Mt Lawley's spots in the five are now settled and they can plan their finals campaign while the other contenders fight for their finals lives.

Dianella look relatively safe in third spot, but must win at least one more game against either Collegians or Bayswater to stay there.

The other two positions are far from settled.

Bayswater are one game clear of Collegians and MHWP, but have an inferior percentage and a hard run home against Mt Lawley and Dianella.

Collegians are still in the five by the barest of margins, but have the easier run home against Dianella and Maylands.

MHWP are out of the five by less than one per cent, but have a rugged run home, facing West Coast and Mt Lawley.

The Mounties recent form suggests they would be more worthy finals contenders than Bayswater, Collegains and even Dianella.

Other games on the weekend saw Dianella inspired by another fine performance by Terry Holtzman, shake off a gallant Whitfords to win by 23 ponts.

Other good performers for the Panthers were Cash, Kerry and Elvey while for the Warriors, Zuchetti, Adams, Renshaw and Black contributed.

CBC won their fourth game in a row with a seven-goal victory over Maylands. Best for the Old Boys were Lou White, Gerry Hart and Paul Hurst, while Mike Bastow, John McCarthy and volatile Ray Whitfield contributed for the Rams.

CBC have a slim hope of making the finals, but must win their next two games by big margins against bottom sides WAIT and Whitfords and hope that Collegians and MHWP lose their remaining two.

EACH week the top performer in the WAFL receives a gift pack from Hardy's Wines — either two bottles from the new Bird Series wines or two bottles of Grand Reserve champagne.

THIS week's top performer is Sean King, of West Perth, with 25 kicks, 12 marks and 10 handballs for a points score of 81.

Mosman survive thriller

MOSMAN Park survived a thrilling WAFA game on Sunday to beat Manning 11.12 to 10.16, after trailing by four goals at quarter time.

A see-saw last quarter culminated in Manning shooting for goal after the final siren from an acute angle. But the kick failed to register a score and Mosman held on to win by two points.

Barry Haydinger (four goals) at centre-half-forward was best for Mosman, while centreman Mike Egan and ruck-rover David Holmes played strongly.

For the losers, defenders Ricky Bernatavicus and Bob Pynanburgh were best with Kurt Hanauld (three goals) being the best of the forwards.

A disappointing Cockburn (13.8) were outclassed by Tuart Hill (35.13), who were ably led by full-forward Robin Jackamara with 11 goals.

For Cockburn, only mobile players John Florenca, Bruno Mentesana and Jamie O'Brien were worthy of mention.

The return of dry weather saw Belmont's running players return to form and enabled them to beat Midland 14.25 to 10.8.

This dented the finals hopes of Midland, as they are now half a game out of the four with two games to play.

Their only hope of qualifying for the finals now lies with the Protests and Disputes Board, who have to hear a complaint against Tuart Hill for allegedly replacing a player sent off by the umpire in their drawn game with Manning.

WESTSIDE FOOTBALL'S COMPREHENSIVE STATS ROUND-UP

Umpires fiddle the scores

by Alan East

LET's explode a myth — the men in white are not always right.

For the second time this year, goal umpires in an official WAFL under-19 match have changed the result of the game due to their own carelessness.

The latest incident to surface was in the clash at Subiaco Oval last Saturday week when South Fremantle kicked 10.9 to beat West Perth, with 6.10.

Everyone in both camps agreed on that score, including the goalkickers in either side.

But the goal umpires didn't agree.

In their opinion, West Perth had kicked a goal towards the end of the second quarter, not South. Subsequently, the official scorecard lodged at WAFL headquarters, signed by the goal umpires Nigel Tilley and Robert Mogridge said that South won 9.9 to West Perth's 7.10.

It doesn't really matter much on the premiership table — the Falcons are secure in fourth spot, five games clear of the Bulldogs.

REVERSED

An earlier mistake this year in the under-19s saw goal umpires Kevin Beermier and Colin Hughes reverse the result of a Subiaco-South game.

Everybody involved had South winners 18.11 to Subiaco 16.10, but the goal umpires' official card — from which premiership tables are compiled — had Subiaco winners, with the scores reversed.

Again, that didn't matter much because both sides were out of the running for the finals.

But the point is — what happens if two goal umpires in a league match, or a vital game towards the end of a season in any grade made an error and maintained their stubborn attitude.

We could have the wrong teams playing in a final or even a team being landed with the wooden spoon when they didn't deserve it.

Some years back two goal umpires in a league game at Leederville Oval actually missed a goal kicked by the Falcons.

Their final tally was one less than all the media and the official stats. At the time, it affected finals percentages and the league had to resort to watching a video of the whole match, kick by kick, before agreeing with the media that the official result was wrong.

Milestone a winner for Todd

by George Temple

SWAN Districts coach John Todd achieved another milestone in his illustrious association with football last Saturday — his 250th game at the helm of Swan Districts.

Todd, an outspoken and often controversial figure, is often regarded as the best coach in West Australia.

His record at Swan Districts speaks for itself. He has also taken WA to two Australian Championship wins and coached Australia to international success in a Gaelic Football/Australian Rules Test series against the Irish.

When Todd took over at Swans in 1976, the scene at Bassendean Oval was glum and the future for the 1961-62-63 premiers did not look good.

But the 1955 Sandover Medallist and the coach of East Fremantle's 1974 premiership winning team went about a massive rebuilding programme.

It was geared for the long term and in the short term Swans fans suffered as their team occupied the bottom two places for the three seasons.

Swans reward came with successive premierships in 1982-83-84.

But the way Todd has again rebuilt his side after finishing eighth last season is a credit to his ability and capacity to develop younger players.

His 250-match record is made up of 135 wins and 115 losses.

Swans have been in the finals six times (it could soon be seven) and have continually had to recover from a huge player drain, particularly after the premiership wins.

Names like Simon Beasley, Leon Baker, Murray Rance, Mike Richardson, Peter Kenny, Phil Narkle, Keith Narkle, Stan Nowotny, Mike Smith, Gerard Neesham, Joe Ahmat and Jon Fogarty immediately spring to mind.

Now he has a new collection of future stars with youngsters Troy Ugle, Mick Grasso, Andy Holmes, Geoff Passeri and Joe Cormack at the forefront.

It was these players (less an injured Andy Holmes) who helped Todd celebrate his milestone with a victory last weekend.

Todd said it was good to win, but not because of his milestone.

"I've been around long enough for milestones not to really bother me, but they're fine," Todd said.

"I just hope they won the game for themselves and not for me.

WESTSIDE RATINGS

WESTSIDE RATINGS is the most unique system of rating the weekly performances in the WAFL — and now also the West Coast Eagles — in local football.

Players are assessed on a rating out of 10 points each week, taking into account whether they are injured (i) or on the interchange bench (r).

Swans face rags or riches end

SWAN Districts captain Brent Hutton rates his team as a real chance to make this year's grand final.

by George Temple

But he warns that they could finish outside of the four.

"We've dropped two recent games to West Perth and Subiaco after being in winning positions," Hutton said.

"We just couldn't go on with it, but that will be different come finals time.

"Finals are won on the day and we have a young side which still doesn't understand the meaning of finals football.

"By the time we get there they will understand and we won't make the mistakes we're making now.

"We've had to battle all through the season and have done everything the hard way. Our ability to battle will be a telling factor.

"Claremont are odds-on favourites to win the premiership and deservedly so, but they seem to be running into a few problems with injuries.

"They will certainly make the grand final and we've got the wood over East Fremantle with two eight-goal wins this season and we know we can match Subiaco.

NOT EASY

Hutton denies that Swans have an easy run to the finals.

The 22-year-old skipper said that they still have to play Claremont at Claremont Oval. The clashes with Perth are always close and the only home game is against South Fremantle who are capable of playing some of the best football in the league on their day.

"Things are still touch and go, especially with West Perth having two of their last three games at Leederville Oval," Hutton said.

Skipper Brent Hutton has been a lynch-pin in Swans push for the finals this season and he rates them as a good chance in the play off for the premiership.

About his own future, the high leaping Swans star said he was keeping his options open.

Hutton has had a consistent season and has been used well by coach John Todd.

Todd has used Hutton in a variety of key positions at both ends of the ground and appears destined to head for the VFL.

He had his first taste of the big time when he represented WA against South Australia in June, kicking three of WA's nine goals.

Hutton narrowly missed selection in the State-of-Origin squad that met Victoria at Subiaco Oval recently and says being a member of that squad has further increased his desire to play at a higher level.

"I would like to move up into VFL ranks, though I am enjoying my stay at Swans," he said.

"I'm open to offers from anyone — the West Coast Eagles or a Victorian team.

"But whatever the offer I would have to look at things closely.

"It might mean having to change jobs and my business is going extremely well at the moment," the insurance consultant said.

CONSOLIDATE

Hutton made his league debut in 1982, but was in and out of the league side, unable to consolidate his place ahead of some illustrious team-mates.

During the 1982 and '83 grand finals, he was watching from the outer, which he says was his biggest disappointment.

"I was 21st man for both of those games," said Hutton.

"It was great to be a member of the squad, but you aren't really part of it unless you actually take part in the victory.

"But I got my chance a year later when we beat East Fremantle in the grand final."

Hutton was leading goalkicker in the WAFL that season, with 83 goals, including five in the big game at league headquarters when Swans dumped the Sharks by 36 points.

Since then he has continued to develop as a player of quality and being named in the final 27 for the State-of-Origin team is testament to this.

Possessing a keen ability to read the play, Hutton's game is further enhanced by his superb aerial skills.

His marking ability ranks alongside that of Claremont's Derek Kickett, Subiaco's Todd Breman and East Fremantle's Clinton Browning and he must be in line for Eagles selection.

DERMOTT HAS TO CALM DOWN

HAWTHORN golden-haired boy Dermott Brereton has created a lot of controversy this season with his aggressive play.

He appears to have a dislike for many players, particularly those in the West Coast Eagles camp.

There is no doubt that he has the makings of a champion and already has achieved more than what most players do in a lifetime.

However, he must learn to control his aggression if he is to become a more complete player.

The big question is — can he achieve this? I'm not sure he can.

He is certainly no Rhodes Scholar and I remember a story I was told about him when he was working for the VFL some years back.

The story goes that he was asked to deliver some letters to the Sydney Swans office, which was housed inside VFL House, where Dermott was employed.

He promptly delivered them to the post office where they were mailed and several days later, via the postman, arrived at the Swans office one floor above his own!

EAGLES CHANGES

THE West Coast Eagles must make changes to their squad of 35 players if they want to survive in the VFL next season.

There are no guesses as to who will be first into the side, either.

Claremont's Derek Kickett has all the credentials of VFL star and Ron Alexander cannot afford to let him slip through the Eagles fingers.

Also into the side should come Tigers team-mate Guy McKenna, who has all the class, poise and confidence that coaches love to see in defenders.

This creates a problem because Claremont already have their full quota of players in the squad. The same applies to my two other proposed recruits.

With Darren Bennett eternally on the injured list and Andrew Lockyer missing from the team every couple of weeks, the way must be opened up for Subiaco's Todd Breman and East Fremantle's Clinton Browning.
