BOSUSTOW WANTS $100,000

Three Victorian clubs have zeroed in on Perth's flamboyant forward Peter Bosustow, but the star player has made it clear that a six figure sum is needed to lure him across the Nullarbor.

'I'd want $100,000 for a three year contract because that's what I figure I'm worth" Bosustow says.

Two years ago he knocked back $65,000 for three years with North Melbourne, so the $100,000 mark is no idle boast. He'll most probably get it.

North Melbourne are still interested, as are Carlton and Geelong.

"Buzz" says he has a soft spot for North Melbourne because the Roos were the first club to approach him. He was paid $5000 two years ago for signing on the dotted line of a form four.

That contract has since lapsed, so now it's open slather.

Calton is also in with a chance because Bosustow's father, Bob, played 30 games with the club in 1955 and 56.

If he does make the move next year the Victorian club of his choice will be up for something in the region of a quarter of a million dollars.

Perth can justifiably ask $100,000 for a clearance fee and along with a signing up fee and sundry expenses the final bill will be around $250,000.

By RAY WILSON

That's big money, but Bosustow is big talent as far as the Vics are concerned.

Bosustow still has another year of a three year contract with Perth to complete and also says that his sporting business — Peter Bosustow's Total Sport — is a major concern.

"I do want to play in Victoria, there's no question about that. The big question is when," Buzz says.

MAL DOBSON . . . in the best form of his career.

CAMPBELL HAS UNIQUE TOUCH

There's no doubt about that man Graham Campbell . . . he stakes a solid claim to the best motivational — and even tactical — coach in Western Australia.

Few gave West Perth much hope in pre-season discussion, particularly after their dismal year, mixed with controversy, last season. But those who wrote West Perth off were forgetting the magic Campbell weaved over Leederville Oval back in 1975 when he transformed an ordinary-looking side into premier-ship winners.

Now he is doing the same . . . and Perth found out just how good the Cardies are when they succumbed to a 67-point defeat — and on their home ground, too.

By ALAN EAST

There was an air of confidence in the Perth camp before last week's game . . . but it was shattered in the space of the first quarter when the Cardies booted an incredible 10.1 to destroy what was supposed to be a top-class game.

Perth have problems; they lack players for key positions and they certainly lack the run-on and team-work that they have had in the past. The defence that has usually been a team within a team is working on an individual axle and the big men are simply not bringing their little men into the game.

While things are gloomy at Perth, they are even gloomier at East Perth, where the Royals, who were reported to be top premiership contenders this year, are struggling.

True, they are still in the top four. But probably only on default as both Clare-mont and East Fremantle are capable of ousting them at any given time.

East Perth's smooth-flowing machine has a few rusty spots around some broken-down cogs and the shuffling of players is not helping to re-establish team spirit and unity. They certainly need the sparkle of a Peter Spencer or the grit of a Chris Allen back on the ball to liven things up.

South Fremantle's unbeaten run con-tinues without any real pressure being applied — but that should change a little this week when they will be host club to some very angry Tigers. If Claremont don't win this encounter, then they are starting to become also-rans for the 1980 season.

Souths have the players; the talent; the brilliance and the depth to stay where they are . . . and football is rapidly looking forward to the May 17 clash when they meet Swan Districts.

Swans continue to be the boom side. The strong feature of their game against Claremont last week was the way they kept on surging away from the Tigers whenever their lead looked in jeopardy.

Claremont showed plenty of deter-mination to keep coming back at Swans, but like every good side, Swans just found that little bit extra to pull out of danger.

Swans face Subiaco this week and though it appeals as the non-event of the day, coach John Todd won't be treating the Lions lightly.

He knows only too well that poor sides have been the downfall of top sides on many occasions and he certainly won't want to throw away his chance of that Marlboro $20,000 jackpot for winning 12 straight games by dropping this one unexpectedly.

What can you say about Subiaco?

They looked competitive against South for a quarter or so last week, but then they slipped back into the old black hole and failed to contest as the Bulldogs ran riot. But, as Ken Armstrong tells everyone, let's stick with it and persevere.

Full marks to East Fremantle and coach Brad Smith for his determination to survive despite the pall of gloom that was rapidly descending on the new premises at East Fremantle Oval.

JOHN TODD . . . looking anxious, but sitting pretty.

Smith must have wondered whether the knives were being sharpened down his way, so what better time to stage a dramatic recovery than on the Perth Oval territory that he once loved so much. East Fremantle have too much talent to be ruled out of the premiership race. They are only a string of wins away from being right up there with the top two teams.

This week East Fremantle face a daunting task in travelling to Leederville in search of four points — but the victory last Saturday must have a morale-boosting effect, so watch out Cardies.

Perth's chances of revival against East Perth are open to question. The Royals are due to shrug off their lethargy and they too, love bobbing up at Lathlain Park to notch the surprise victory.

GRAHAM MOSS WILL END AN ERA

Guest Columnist

Presented by McInerney Ford

THIS WEEK:
ARTHUR MARSHALL
TVW 7 commentator

Football fans should take a good look at Graham Moss this season, because he will be the last playing coach we will see in WA big time.

The game is becoming much faster and players have to be more flexible to position change.

A slow tactical move when scores are being registered every minute can cost a team victory.

Moss is a top coach, but on match days he is more valuable as a captain and inspirational leader.

How can he concentrate on moves when the opposition have a three-fold plan to blanket him out of the game?

Claremont's Syd Dufall (former West Perth star) is continually studying the opposition from the bench for Moss and has been joined this year by new chairman of selectors, the Rev. Ken Melville.

Ken is a teacher at Scotch College and is Deputy Principal of St Columbas College.

He played 80 odd games for Melbourne during their premiership sweep (1952-56) and won the club's fairest and best in 1952.

A brilliant centreman, he was Melbourne's chairman of selectors in 1975 and 1976, so the Claremont position is not strange.

Ken was recommended for the position by former Melbourne star Brian Johnson, who is on 12 months study leave from the University of WA.

Moss must surely feel confident with the advice these men give from the fence.

NEED FOR SPECIALISTS

The need for more doctors skilled in sports medicine is always evident at this time of the season.

Just look at the long list of injuries, particularly to legs, that exist in every club.

Is it the low-cost boots or too much gym work?

Are the players overtrained or too finely tuned?

You'll find a different answer in every debate.

There's no argument about the game being much faster and because of this, body contact at flat-out speeds must take its toll. But have you noticed the magnificent new ground plays that have been invented by ball players like Rioli, Kickett, the Narkles', Williams and Mountain as they prop to dodge a tackle and cope with the new holding the ball rule.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN THEY ARE CAUGHT !!!

★ ★ ★

In Perth two-thirds of our season is played in the summer when the grounds are hard with no give for footy STOPS — hence the strain on the knee.

Smaller stops have been used recently with apparent success.

Don Scott has been playing for Hawthorn with NO STOPS AT ALL !

★ ★ ★

FOREIGN LEGION

While the hullabaloo of big name recruiting goes on, South Fremantle have quietly put a team together that looks and fights like the Foreign Legion.

Over the last three years they have snared Paul Mountain (Swans), Mick Moylan (Claremont), Noel Carter (Richmond), Paul Vasoli (Perth), Shane Sheridan (West Perth) and Neil Randall (Subiaco).

Neil Randall — Shane Sheridan

When you add Basil Campbell, Maurice Rioli and Wayne Delmenico from Darwin, and country boys Greg Cavanagh, Gavin Carter, Rod Barrett and Stephen Michael you're got SOME lineup.

CAPABLE ADMINISTRATORS

It's great to see Kevin Merifield (Subiaco) join John Cooper (Swans) and Merv Cowan (East Fremantle) as a club president who has had league football experience.

These type of men have the business management qualities that are essential to football clubs nowadays.

They also understand the players; respect supporters' opinions and have the club colours running through their veins.

Mr Cooper and Mr Cowan have had so many interstate delegate trips that their football political knowledge and experience is practically irreplacable.

Mr Merifield has proved himself as a top athlete and tycoon in private enterprise.

It shouldn't take him long to learn the rest!

CAMPBELL IS A WHIZ

Graham Campbell with his confident, common sense chatter, infectious exuberance and football know-how, has got West Perth supporters walking a little prouder.

Campbell is a whiz as a sporting personality.

Stars are usually liked, loved, admired or hated, but you cannot hate Campbell.

Like a top salesman, he learns his product inside out and then markets it for top results.

Campbell played for Fitzroy and Victoria with great distinction and has coached league teams to premierships — West Perth in WA and Fitzroy in a VFL night series.

He knows the game backwards.

He is a top judge of a players talent, a proven tactician and great at pre-match addresses.

Boy, can be TALK !

Campbell thrives on the theory that "Praise is the re-enforcement of an attitude".

You'll never read or hear him roast his men in public.

He's behind his players, team, and club to the hilt and his loyalty and sincerity rubs off.

If you don't believe me, start reading the coaches comments after each match on weekends.

He's a promotional wizard as some of these comments show:

APRIL 5 — West Perth beat Subiaco — A top performance of run-on football. It put a lie to our pre-season matches.

APRIL 13 — West Perth beat South Fremantle — We had our chances to win when it really mattered the run of the ball went against us.

APRIL 20 — West Perth beat Claremont — Exciting Stuff! Thanks boys we are on the way to being a good side.

APRIL 26 — West Perth beat Perth — Thats burried the Lathlain Park Hoodoo.

TEAL CUP BATTLE IS ON

The battle for places in WA's Teal Cup side gets under way this weekend.

The Teal Cup, for Australia's elite junior footballers in the 17 years and under bracket, will be contested in Perth from June 13 to 16 this year.

This weekend sees a live-in coaching camp for 45 specially invited youngsters from city areas and country districts. Top coaches and league players will be part of the camp at the Guildford recreation centre venue.

Coach Jack Ivankovich, who is renowned for his coaching roles at the Manning club, producing brilliant stars like Brian Peake, Peter Spencer and Robert Wiley, is keen to win the trophy this year.

WA lost on percentages to South Australia in last year's Hobart carnival and playing on their home territory should boost WA's hopes in 1980.

Juniors who are involved with WAFL league, reserves or colts sides will attend special training sessions at the Kent Street High School on Wednesdays and Sundays as from next week.

A number of last year's stars are eligible for the Teal Cup team again including Robert Zupanovich (South Fremantle), Glen Rogers (East Fremantle), Warren Asplin (Swans) and Greg Goard (Subiaco).

INTERSTATE UPDATE

MAL BROWN AFTER VICTORIAN COACHING JOB

Melbourne is buzzing with the rumour that South Fremantle coach Malcolm Brown is a likely contender for a 1981 coaching job in the VFL.

Brown was quoted in a Victorian Sunday newspaper last weekend as saying that there was a 50-50 chance he would be in Melbourne for a minimum of three years.

He said "The principal company for which I work said recently it would be in my interests if I were to go to Melbourne".

"I haven't had any discussions with VFL clubs yet".

The report suggests that Brown is likely to start talks with several clubs on June 10 when his side South Fremantle is in Melbourne to meet Essendon in the Escort Championship match.

WAR AGAINST SCALPERS

The VFL general manager, Jack Hamilton has had discussions with the Victorian Minister for Consumer Affairs, Mr. Ramsey, in a further step to stamp out ticket scalpers. The league hopes the Victorian Parliament will adopt anti-scalper legislation by September.

JEZZA MAY QUIT

St. Kilda's new coach, Alex Jesaulenko is considering hanging up his boots. Following his side's sound thrashing at the hands of South Melbourne last weekend, he said he would have to give serious consideration to relinquishing his role as a player.

He admitted after last week's match that he spent most of his time coaching rather than playing.

MADDEN MYSTERY

The immediate football future of Essendon captain Simon Madden is in doubt.

After a lethargic performance when his side lost narrowly to Collingwood last weekend, Essendon coach Barry Davis revealed that Madden was suffering from a mystery illness.

He said he had not trained for a fortnight and had confined his efforts to match days.

GARY'S FINAL WORD

Phil Carman

There has been more than enough said and written about the inglorious "Carman affair" and we don't intend to add to it. But as an epilogue we print these few comments on the "case" from Garry Sidebottom:

"You got off light Phil Carman, I say you should have got the whole season".

"Umpires have their jobs to do and you have to keep out of the road and accept their decisions".

"I learned that in my first year. I got four weeks against Essendon and thought that not being able to play was the end of the world".

"You should try to avoid fronting the tribunal . . . it's a scary feeling. Even as a witness it's unerving".

You should know Gary.

VFL Report

BEITZEL BEING VICTIMISED

Collingwood coach Tom Hafey has claimed that the Victorian media is victimising umpires director Harry Beitzel.

"When you read into the innuendoes you can see they are having a shot at him", Hafey said.

"He's put his head on the chopping block by taking the job. As far as Harry goes, he's done a lot of work for which he will never get credit".

Hafey said he did not know of any other person who had given to football what Beitzel had.

PRICE PAYS

VFA player Trevor Price will go down in Victorian football history as the first senior player to be ordered off the ground. Price, who has a reputation (with which he doesn't agree) of being the roughest man in the VFA, was the first man sent off this year under the VFA's new order-off rule.

In his 11 years in VFA football, Price has been reported about eight times.

AMERICAN RECRUIT

Leading Geelong identities are discussing a plan to send a scout to America to the drafting session of the National Basketball League in a bid to find a giant ruckman.

The introduction of the line dividing the centre circle — in Victoria only — where ruckmen are separated, spring and reach have become match-winning attributes. This has kindled Geelong's interest in the American idea.

If the plan goes ahead, an official will look among basketball discards for a player who would like to come to Australia and try his luck at the centre bounce downs.

SIMMS DENIAL

North Melbourne recruiting ace Ron Joseph has denied that his club are paying Perth's Wayne Simms $10,000 a year for the next three years while he waits to go to Victoria.

★ ★ ★

DUCKWORTH BACK

Central Districts iron-man John Duckworth should be back in action this week after a distressing kidney injury. Duckworth will have tests on his kidneys this week and expects to be given the all-clear to resume football after his opening-match setback.

WOODVILLE 'OUT SHOPPING'

Woodville — yet to have tasted victory this season — have embarked on a "shopping spree" in an effort to lift themselves from the bottom of the SANFL premiership table.

The club has set a target of seven interstate players and hopes to have some of their recruits in the line-up for this Saturday's clash against Glenelg.

Woodville are coached by former Victorian Barry Goodingham, who is currently sidelined with a hamstring injury. He has struggled this season and their 73 point defeat at the hands of North Adelaide last weekend was further evidence that the club needs to do something drastic to improve their performances. It was North's first victory for the season.

RECRUITS LIFT WESTS

West Adelaide also recorded their first win for the season last weekend with an impressive over Sturt.

Wests embarked on a campaign to boost their recruits. After losing their first three games, the club recruited Richmond's Geoff Berry and Fitzroy's Craig Williams and regained the services of half-forward Peter Meuret, who returned after failing to secure a clearance to Geelong.

Geelong agreed to allow Meuret to return to Wests for the remainder of 1980 on the understanding that he would be released to the Victorian club for the 1981 season.

He had been working and living in Geelong since January.

In his return to Wests on Saturday he was named best man on the ground. Williams was also among his side's best and Berry contributed with some useful football and finished with two goals.

HARDEMAN KO'd

It wasn't a good day for Sturt . . . their prize Victorian recruit Garry Hardeman was knocked out in the match against West. He swallowed his tongue after being hit in the head and was rushed to Royal Adelaide Hospital.

Hardeman is a former Melbourne and Victorian centre-half-back.

ANZAC DAY SUCCESS

Anzac Day football met with resounding success when it returned to the Adelaide scene for the first time in six years last week.

Fifteen thousand fans turned out to watch West Torrens beat Glenelg at Adelaide Oval and another 18,000 were on hand to see Port Adelaide defeat South Adelaide at Football Park.

SANFL Report

A match at Adelaide Oval on Anzac Day was once a tradition in South Australia. The record attendance for an Anzac Day match in South Australia is 37,292. It was set in 1958 when Port Adelaide downed Norwood at Adelaide Oval.

NEW SIREN RULING

South Australian league executives have adopted a new ruling following the much publicised draw in the opening round of SA fixtures this season.

After Port Adelaide and Central District drew, Port officials complained that a goal kicked by Central was actually booted after the siren.

The field umpire did not hear the siren, though, apparently the number two umpire did.

The new ruling states that the umpire controlling play should be the sole judge of the first sound of the siren. However, if the number one umpire does not hear the siren, then the number two umpire must tell him it had gone.

The number two umpire would then tell the umpire controlling the game what happened after the siren. The final decision on what would or would not be allowed will rest with the umpire controlling the game.

ROBRAN COMEBACK

Veteran North Adelaide coach Barrie Robran, in search of two more league games to reach 200, has made a comeback. The 32-year-old Robran played in the first half of the reserves match last week and says he is about a month away from resuming with the senior side. However, his match statistics of seven marks, eight kicks and 12 handpasses in a half of football suggests he could be back sooner. Robran has never been fully fit since his left knee was severely damaged in an interstate clash with Victoria back in 1974.

TREVOR'S SURPRISE

It's not often a coach is shocked when his team does well . . . but that's the case with West Adelaide's Trevor Hughes this week.

Wests went on a record-breaking spree with their huge 96-point win over Sturt — and Hughes was shocked at the way the hiding was dished out.

"I knew we had improved, but not that much," he said.

Wests had lost their first three games and the win was a morale booster for the club.

GOALS!

East Fremantle's specialist half-forward flanker Ken Judge really showed his versatility with his five-goal haul against East Perth on Saturday. He led former Fitzroy defender Kevin O'Keeffe a merry dance as he goaled on the run, from hurried snapshots or from set positions after brilliant marks.

* * *

* * *

Swan Districts full-forward Simon Beasley, the early trendsetter on our Golden Boot table, was right out of touch on Saturday. After a brilliant conversion rate of 19 goals from 26 scoring shots in the opening three matches, he continued on his way with Swans' first major on Saturday. But then his accuracy deserted him and he booted six straight points for the remainder of the game.

* * *

East Perth pair Steven Curtis and George Michalczyk, both normally more at home in defence, are thriving on their ruck-roving roles this season — and they generally seem to kick quick goals early in the game. Last week Michalczyk booted East Perth's first and third goals and Curtis kicked his team's fourth. The same thing happened against Swans two weeks earlier.

* * *

West Perth rover Corry Bewick earned himself a $100 bonus for his game against Perth last week. His first-quarter toal when he swung out of a pack on the half-forward line, eluded a Clinton Roberts tackle and dropped the ball on to his left foot for an accurate snapshot earned him the Town and Country goal-of-the-day award on Channel 7's World of Football on Sunday.

* * *

The long-goals-of-the-week award go to two centreliners — Peter Menaglio (West Perth) and East Fremantle's Stephen Green. Menaglio's goal at Lathlain Park went from just inside the centre square and even though it was against the wind, it just seemed to keep rising and finally bounced through. Green's also covered tremendous distance before bouncing right on the line.

KEN JUDGE... WITH HIS OWN TRADEMARK

Ken Judge has a trademark which is almost exclusively his own in WA football . . .

The talented East Fremantle half-forward always takes to the field in a long-sleeved guernsey — a feature that helps his psychological approach to the game.

Judge, a 22-year-old with 124 goals to his credit in his 52 WAFL games, is determined to improve that average and his long sleeves are all part of his approach to the game.

Few players in WA wear long sleeves, unless it is extremely wet. But Judge wears his special No. 8 jumper even on warm days.

"It's just something psychological" he says. "I don't really know what good it does me, but I remember that the first few games I played I wore long sleeves and did okay, so I've stuck with them.

"They do make me feel a bit more confident and they give you more protection, especially from grass burns and so forth."

Judge is East Fremantle's specialist half-forward and a rugged new approach to football this season could see him finish up in the State side — an ambition he cherishes.

Judge has abundant natural football skills and because of this he often looks a bit casual in his approach to the game — and especially to training.

He was given a gentle reminder from coach Bradley Smith earlier this year that his atttitude had to sharpen up — and Judge has taken up the challenge.

"Ive always realised that I've got the talent to play league football, so I figured I didn't have to work too hard," he says.

"But this year I've decided that I should knuckle down and really work on playing consistently. When you see guys like Brian Peak turning in consistent games week after week, you realise how far short you are falling."

Judge's football in the past has often been erratic and he is something of an enigma at East Fremantle.

He would often flash into a game in the first quarter, snap up three or four goals and then disappear for the rest of the day. Or he would struggle for kicks throughout the match, only to boot quick goals in the closing stages and snatch victory for his side.

Judge is also a competent cricketer, but he has placed football on top.

He played A-grade with Fremantle in the WACA competition early in the last season, but opted out for Mercantile cricket to enable him to devote time to football training.

Bosustow wants $1000,000

"I had a couple of phone calls last week from two of the clubs and they don't look like easing up.

"As far as the 1981 season that I'm contracted to Perth — one of the recruiting scouts said contracts were made to be broken."

Bosustow has opened the season in brilliant style along with rugged half-forward Doug Simms.

Simms and Bosustow have launched an avalanche of goals and have booted half the score kicked by the Demons this season.

They both have 19 goals for the year . . . an average of just under five a game.

Continue that average and both men could conceivably boot 100 for the season.

Apart from the 38 goals the Perth duo have booted in home and away games, they kicked a combined 54 majors in four scratch matches.

So when Bosustow, a 97-game player with the Demons, talks about the 100-goal mark, his talk should not be taken lightly.

"The odds of both of us booting 100 goals would be pretty long, but give us a few more weeks and those odds are likely to shorten" Bosustow says.

He appreciates playing alongside Simms. "It's a comfort to have somebody so tough playing next to you" he says.

Simms and Bosustow often joke about the number of goals each have kicked and admit that a "friendly rivalry" exists to see who can kick the most.

Bosustow says he would have kicked a lot more goals this year if the ball was delivered more neatly into the forward line.

But 100 for the season for two half-forwards from the one club? . . . stranger things have happened.

Australia's first female football critic . . . .

MOTHER BROWN

GIRLS in football — what's wrong with that?

I was interested to read in The Sunday Times about the little 12-year-old girl playing football down South Fremantle way — and I was most disappointed to see Brian Peake comment that he didn't think girls should play football.

I would be a little bit frightened about the girls getting hurt, but surely down in the junior grades they are safe. Anything that can keep our children — whether they be boys or girls — interested in sport and off the streets, then there can be little harm in it.

TRUMPET BLOWER

East Fremantle certainly have a great trumpet blower in their midst — and he has a sense of humour!

In the Derby the other week he came out with a full blast every time Old Easts registered a goal . . . but that waned a bit as the score slowed down.

We all had a good laugh when the final siren went and he got up and played Amazing Grace!

But I guess he would have been in his element up at Perth Oval last week. Good luck to him.

WOMEN'S ROLE

I've had a few mumbles and grumbles over the years about the lack of recognition in football for women.

Every club has dozens of hard-working women behind the scenes, doing such things as organising players teas, barbecues, afternoon teas, fund-raising and just plain old cleaning up.

So why aren't they eligible for life membership of football clubs?

As far as I know we don't have a female life member of a WA football club, but by comparison, it's fairly easy for the male workers to receive recognition after years of service.

Clubs are starting to become more open-minded about our women, giving them associate membership and so forth. So why not life membership when the occasion merits it.

UMPIRE CONTROVERSY

Umpires — crickey, we've had some controversy over them in the last week, haven't we?

What about the umpire in Geraldton who got off with a three-week suspension after hitting a player.

We don't really seem to have been given the full details, but even so, it's a pretty serious charge. A player would get more than that if he hit an umpire, so it should go both ways.

But I would like to see more details about that case, or at least, an explanation of why the penalty was so light.

SYDNEY MOVE

It's really marvellous that Aussie Rules football is moving into Sydney — my home town.

I've been in WA for 35 years now, but I still regard Sydney with fond memories and I'd love to see our great game take off over there.

Whenever I go back there I find them so one-eyed about their football codes; calling ours aerial ping-pong and all that rubbish. The VFL efforts to break into Sydney are good — but they need to really step things up.

Our game is based on skills and football talent, not brute force like rugby. So let's go in hard there and take over while the climate is right for a change.

Cheers,
Eileen Brown.

FONG — IS A CARDINAL VETERAN AT 23

To be a veteran at 23 means that you started young . . . and that's certainly the case with courageous West Perth rover Les Fong.

The Nollamara junior was in his 16th year when he made his debut with West Perth, in a side of great players such as Mel Whinnen and Bill Dempsey. Fong has played under coaches Dennis Jones, Graham Campbell and Percy Johnson; he has enjoyed success in the 1975 grand final and failure in West Perth's poor year of 1979.

This year, the diminutive rover has been promoted to captain the side, an honour he treasures and it was a tremendous thrill when he led the Cardinals out on to the ground for the first time.

Fong's football has not been trouble-free. He has had a number of serious injuries, but he has fought back to recover from them all. Being a small man makes life hard on the football field, but courage is Fong's forte and it is his trademark on the field.

This week ALAN EAST talks to the little rover.

Looking at this season, do you feel a little dubious about West Perth's hopes?

With a new season, it's usually a case of looking at last year and hoping the side can improve. I think we have recruited sufficiently and certainly if we get good football from Brian Adamson and David Palm, who are key players, and our youngsters can come on, I can see West Perth being a lot better side this year than we were last year.

How do you feel about leading the side?

It's certainly an honour. It is something that once I started playing I always thought I'd like to do. I certainly appreciate the fact that the directors appointed me.

You are something of a veteran even though you are just 23. How did your early start come about?

I played a full year of reserves in 1972 and in 1973 I did fairly well in practice matches, but I still had to wait till the third game of the season to get into the side. I think it was when Shane Sheridan broke down. I was 16½ when I played my first game.

Where did you play before coming to West Perth?

I had played with Nollamara juniors. I came out of under-16s and decided to try straight out with the reserves, bypassing fourths and thirds as they were then.

Have you missed many games through injury?

Yes, I've probably missed more than 20 games over the years. I missed the last six last season, that was probably my longest spell. Before that, they had been fairly spaced out. I had a strained tendon at the back of my knee last year, which resulted in a pulled hamstring. Most of the other injuries were just minor knees or ankles and so forth.

Were you a bit worried at the end of last season that you might not get over the injury?

No, I was confident that I could get over it with the right rest and pre-season treatment.

Looking back over your career, which do you think was your best year?

Well, last year strangely enough even though injury forced me out. But before that I guess 1977 was a good year when I made the State side.

Being a small player, have you found it difficult in the physical clashes?

To a certain extent, yes. But small players tend to learn in the end how to look after themselves, to get out of the way of some of the bumps, or when someone lines you up. I don't mind taking the bumps, your body gradually gets used to it and hardens up. Early on it certainly was hard; getting out of bed on Sunday mornings was a real effort.

What about the future. Do you see yourself going on for a while yet?

I hope so. I'm aiming for 200 games and once I reach that then I'll see what lies ahead. At this stage I'm really concerned at helping West Perth win more games than we lose.

One question about Les Fong that intrigues many football people is your ancestry. Like to fill us in?

My parents are both Australian. It was my father's father who was Chinese. He married an Australian lass and came here to settle. So that makes me about a quarter Chinese and three-quarters Australian. I do get a few jibes out on the field, but I just laugh it off now. It just makes me more determined. I guess it's something to be proud of that I'm probably the only Chinese footballer around here.

BENNETT'S BURST

MOSS NEEDS A BIG HELPER

Another memo. This time to Graham Moss. Graham you need a protector on the football field.

You seriously need to consider reverting to a system where you run a big mobile player on the ball with you.

The club is over-endowed with this type of player. To name a few . . . Kevin Worthington, Barry Beecroft and Kim Craig.

Other clubs are now employing tactics to negate you at bouncedowns . . . and they are succeeding.

The main difference, in my opinion, between the Claremont of last year and the side of this season is your lack of influence on Claremont's play.

Last year you were able to consistently get the ball out to a player in the open. But this isn't happening this season.

It happened briefly against Swan Districts. Twice last Saturday you were able to win the ball away from the centre consistently and what a vastly different side Claremont were in the first 15 minutes of the match and the opening stages of the third quarter.

Clubs are using physical ruckmen against you, to nullify your play. The most common tactic is to cannon into you at the bouncedown to stop you from grasping the ball.

They then rely on a ruckrover to come over the top or capitalise on players capable of burrowing in for the ball once it hits the ground.

Because you try to grab the ball and spoon it out to a player in the open, your players are tending to stay wide of the pack in anticipation of receiving the ball.

It is leaving you undermanned if the ball falls to the ground, which in turn is making it easier for your opponents to get the ball away from the centre.

There was a time when the kind of tactics being adopted against you would not have been tolerated by umpires.

However, it has become a reality of football, and you need to do something to alleviate the kind of interference you are receiving at throwdowns.

A big robust player could act as a buffer or as the knock ruckman if you find yourself anchored to the ground by an opponent merely intent on stopping you.

One can't really blame other clubs for using tactics to nullify you. After all, as the most talented ruckman in the State, you have the ability to destroy them.

You also have the creative players who can capitalise on your ascendancy on the ball, particularly when you are dishing it out to them.

But Claremont can't afford to have you reduced to an ordinary player . . . and that is currently happening. Measures should be taken to allow you to utilise your great skills.

If they're not then Claremont could end up struggling for the rest of the season.

FOOTBALL FORUM

Firstly, thanks for a great contribution to WA football.

Your magazine is just what we football lovers need to fill in time during the week when nothing is happening.

If I may be allowed to ask for a request — Is there any chance of doing a double Player Profile on Keith and Phil Narkle. Much publicity is given to the Krakouer brothers, while two of the most respected, skilful and nicest players in the Narkles go virtually unnoticed by the media.

Thanking you and hoping your paper gets all the success it deserves.

First of all I would like to congratulate you on a great paper — I'm glad to see someone doing something for football.

I'm writing about a section in your paper "Player Profile" I think it's great, and I was wondering if you could have anything on Stephen Curtis or Rod Duggan next time you have an East Perth player.

I'm really happy that you are not favouring one club, that you have stuff on all eight of them. Hoping to see Stephen Curtis as your next "Player Profile". Until then, keep up the tremendous work.

DAVE CLEMENT

SWANS BREAK RECORD

Swan Districts present winning sequence of nine league games is the best ever in that club's history.

They won the last five games of 1979, and have won the first four this year.

Their previous best winning run was SIX straight in 1964, ironically that was not a good year for the black and whites as after that record run they won only three of the next 14 games to finish in sixth place.

And what about the other seven teams

CLAREMONT'S best run was in 1936 when they won seven straight.

SUBIACO won 10 straight in 1915.

WEST PERTH won 11 consecutive games in 1968 under Polly Farmer.

PERTH'S best run was in the 1968/69 years with Mal Atwell as coach, they won 14 straight.

SOUTH FREMANTLE in the Clive Lewington era won 17 on end in the 1953 season.

EAST PERTH had their best run under Jack Sheedy when they won 19 games on end during the 1958/59 season.

EAST FREMANTLE have the record with 35 consecutive victories during the 1945/46/47 seasons. Jerry Dolan was the successful coach.

(In the VFL Geelong hold the record with 23 wins straight during 1952/53, in South Australia Port Adelaide won 28 on end).

So much for winning sequences, what about the losers —

SUBIACO have the longest run of losses when they failed in 34 games on end during the 1902/03/04 years.

WEST PERTH have the next worse record losing 27 in the 1938/39 seasons.

SWAN DISTRICTS lost twenty straight in the 1950/51 years.

CLAREMONT'S worst run was during the 1945/46 seasons when they lost 17 on end.

EAST FREMANTLE lost 12 straight in 1898/99.

EAST PERTH'S worst draught was in the Sheedy era, losing 11 straight during 1963/64.

SOUTH FREMANTLE recorded ten consecutive losses during 1964/65.

PERTH'S worst drought is 10 straight in 1940.

(In the VFL, St Kilda lost its first 48 games, but by the worst run of any league team in Australia is Glenelg, who lost 56 games on END.)

★ ★ ★

WEST PERTH RECORD

West Perth's score last week (27.13) was easily their highest score at Lathlain Park, previous best was 21.15 in 1961.

Their margin was also a record for that ground, their 67 point win was one point better than the 1961 margin.

Although the Demons had won the nine previous games at home they didn't always enjoy the home ground superiority over West Perth. It was not till the sixth meeting of these two sides that Perth won at Lathlain.

GOALS AFTER THE SIREN

Last week West Perth reserves won with a goal kicked after the final siren. How often has that happened in league football? This list is not complete but here is some instances.

1974: Max George (Swans) goaled to give them a win over West Perth.

1972: Ian Anderson (West Perth) goaled after the bell to put West ahead of South Fremantle.

1966: Phil Farrell of Subiaco put his team in front of South Fremantle.

1963: Ted Kilmurrary of East Perth kicked the winning score against Claremont.

1957: Kevin Clune of Claremont goaled to put his side six points ahead of West Perth.

Two draws I recall with a kick after the bell were —

1965: Ken Holt East Fremantle levelled the scores against Swan Districts.

1960: Ken Armstrong goaled to even the scores against West Perth.

Chubby's Chatter

Watching the East Perth — East Fremantle game last Saturday it was noticeable the difference between the ruck rover and roving combinations of the two teams. The East Fremantle combination had something like 92 kicks and 44 effective hand passes compared with East Perth's 54 kicks and 31 effective hand passes.

Although Steven Curtis played a serviceable game for East Perth, I feel he is better suited in the back pocket where last year he was part of a formidable East Perth defence.

At present, because of injuries to the other players, Ian Miller is at centre-half-back and it is my opinion that he would be better suited playing as a ruck rover, where he creates a sure avenue of attack for East Perth.

Two East Fremantle players who did impress me were Alf Shiosaki and Kim Heatherington.

Shiosaki, although not in the class of Tony Buhagiar, worked very solidly and is not afraid to commit his body and unlike some rovers, he is not afraid to chase opposition players, to put pressure on them and help his players down the ground.

Heatherington, although he still has a lot to learn, showed that he is a player of the future with timely overhead marks and when under pressure, he showed willingness to commit his body and burst through packs and deliver the ball upfield with assurance.

■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

DEMONS GOALSCORERS

Looking at the Perth goalkickers over the past two weeks, it has been noticeable that against Swan Districts only four players kicked goals and against West Perth five players kicked goals. Of course, in both these games Peter Bosustow and Doug Simms stand out. Their statistics of last week were that Doug Simms had 15 kicks and no handballs and Bosustow 14 kicks and four handballs. I wonder whether there is some sort of goalkicking battle between the two players !

■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

. . . . AND PAST PERFORMERS

Talking about Perth's goalkicking efforts, three capable scorers come to mind who have either been cleared to other clubs or retired — Murray Couper, Robert Wiley and Chris Mitsopoulis. Between these three players they average something like 150 goals a season. Two were rovers and it has been noticeable that Perth's rovers this year and last year have not been the prolific goal kickers as in the past.

■ ■ ■ ■ ■ ■

AN ODD MOVE

Another interesting facet of Perth's play is that they are continually changing their ruck rovers out of the forward pocket. These ruck rovers are really the size of rovers and are not in a position to take the high mark overhead or to combat the taller ruckmen who change out of the back pocket.

This facet of football is okay if you have a winning team and they are delivering the ball with purpose and application into the forward line. But at present they are kicking the ball long and high, which means the full-forward has to really combat two tall players.

I was pleased to see WAFL field umpire Darryl Gillies doing his bit to help junior football last week. Darryl was running the boundary line for a 15s game in the East Fremantle district.

ALLAN STILES

HOUGHTON HOTS UP

Perth president Cliff Houghton, a man who does not tolerate failure, pulled no punches last Saturday when he spoke to members about the Ken Armstrong departure.

He cleared the air about a few troublesome aspects of Armstrong's sudden departure . . . and the reputation of their former coach was not enhanced by Mr. Houghton's speech.

"It was only two weeks ago that I stood here and spoke to you members about the great job Ken Armstrong was doing in our junior development work", Mr. Houghton told a packed social hall.

"I congratulated him on the establishment of our junior Demon Cup and felt confident that the system would produce a steady stream of league players.

"Then, less than 24 hours later it was with considerable dismay that I heard a television news item that told me Ken Armstrong had accepted a coaching position at Subiaco.

"Ken Armstrong had a five-year contract with this club. I believe that he walked out on that contract.

"When I posed the question to him of what the situation would be if the roles were reversed, his words were that the Perth Football Club would be sued for every cent it had.

"I don't know whether you are booing me or our ex-league coach, but it doesn't matter. If there are people here who are disloyal to the Perth Football Club, then the quicker we get rid of you, the better".

CLINTON BROWN... A DEDICATED LION

Subiaco's youngest league player, Clinton Brown, is the classic example of why that club must persevere with their youth.

Eighteen year old Brown comes from a strong footballing family that has already produced another league player in elder brother Phil Brown.

Teenage Talent

WITH TIM WORNER

Clint holds a tremendous amount of respect for his brother and describes their relationship as 'fairly close'.

"Although Phil has never offered me any advice, he is, in my opinion, one of the most talented young ruckmen in Western Australia," he said.

Like Phil, Clint came up through the Subiaco juniors playing with Scarborough.

Following his under-age career Clint was enticed to the Lions den and started training with the colts side.

At the end of last season he moved up to the reserves side and then he was finally given a chance in the big league, a chance he relished.

"My first league game was one of the biggest thrills of my life" he says.

His first game achieved for him a much sought-after goal and now he aims to play his best each and every week, whether it be with the seconds or the league team.

He also nurses a deep-seated love for the Subiaco club.

"I want to play for a Subiaco premiership side" he said.

Clinton is a true sports fanatic and if he is not playing football he is out enjoying some other sport.

His father has helped both he and Phil to play league football.

"I am grateful to my father for the coaching he gave me as a kid. I hope he gets as much enjoyment out of seeing his sons play league as I do" he said.

With the crop of "teenage talent" at Subiaco, it would not be surprising to see Clint play in a premiership side in a few years.

Brad Lohoar, Dave Perry, Dwayne Lamb, Mick Johns, Paul Clune, John Bengough, Brian Taylor, Tim Gepp and Gerry Cotter are just a few names that come to mind.

If the Subiaco selectors persevere with their young players they will, in the long run, achieve results.

Clinton Brown . . . going places.

GARY'S GOSSIP

Reg Hampson, the man who was virtually squeezed out at Subiaco when he resigned after not being given a say in the selection of his own reserves side, is still in the coaching field. Reg, a former top-line player and a capable man when it comes to moulding teams together, is coaching the Woodlands under-16's, would you believe. And there is still one school of thought that Subiaco requires his services — he has been asked if he is interested in coaching a combined side in the Subiaco district.

SWANS' SPONSORSHIP MYSTERY

What's going on up at Swan Districts? Sponsorship seems to be a rather delicate word around Bassendean Oval. Firstly, we had the controversy over whether Swann Insurance were going to continue their major sponsorship of the club or not. They had a tremendous run in their first season, with that Swann emblem becoming almost as well known as another Swan sign around town. It amazed the Swans camp that the company did not rush in to renew their option. When the whole thing slowed down, Swans went out in search of another major sponsor and then we heard that huge whisper about a really big sponsorship deal just around the corner. It involved a major real estate firm, but was 'not quite tied up' so they told us. Anyway, that was weeks ago . . . now Swans are really burning and no-one seems to be cashing in on the action. I hope, for Swans sake that nothing has gone wrong.

AND WHAT ABOUT THE CARDINALS!

Talking about sponsorship . . . the big puzzle in WA football circles is why can't West Perth tie up a major sponsor? West Perth certainly have one of the most solid core of followers in the business, loyal through thick and thin, and there has never been any shortage of money among their big-name backers. Last year we heard about Dunlop getting interested in sponsoring a top football club, but nothing came of that. Maybe West Perth don't need a sponsor — their cash flow is usually pretty good, particularly now that they are back in the winners circle. But once again, a big firm is missing out on some first-class exposure.

SUBIACO'S FEMALE FUND-RAISER

What do you think about Subiaco utilising the services of a woman to step up their fund-raising campaign? I'm told that Judy Waggoner is the lady in question and she has been a keen Subi fan for many a day. She has been a big motivator behind the scenes in the Lions den, being closely involved in a number of projects. One scheme that she helped push to a resounding success level was a membership re-recruiting drive. A team of women headed by our Ms. Waggoner tracked down hundreds of past Subiaco members and persuaded many of them to come back into the fold. Football needs these type of hard-working women and full marks to Subi recognising that fact.

SHAW MOVE WAS NO SURPRISE

South Fremantle swung former Collingwood big-man Derek Shaw into the side at the last minute last Saturday. I don't know whether it was meant to be a surprise move or not, but if it was then it didn't really have the desired effect. The Subiaco camp knew Shaw was playing when they saw he wasn't in the reserves — and saw Tony Morley sitting in the grandstand when he should, by rights, have been in the change-rooms!

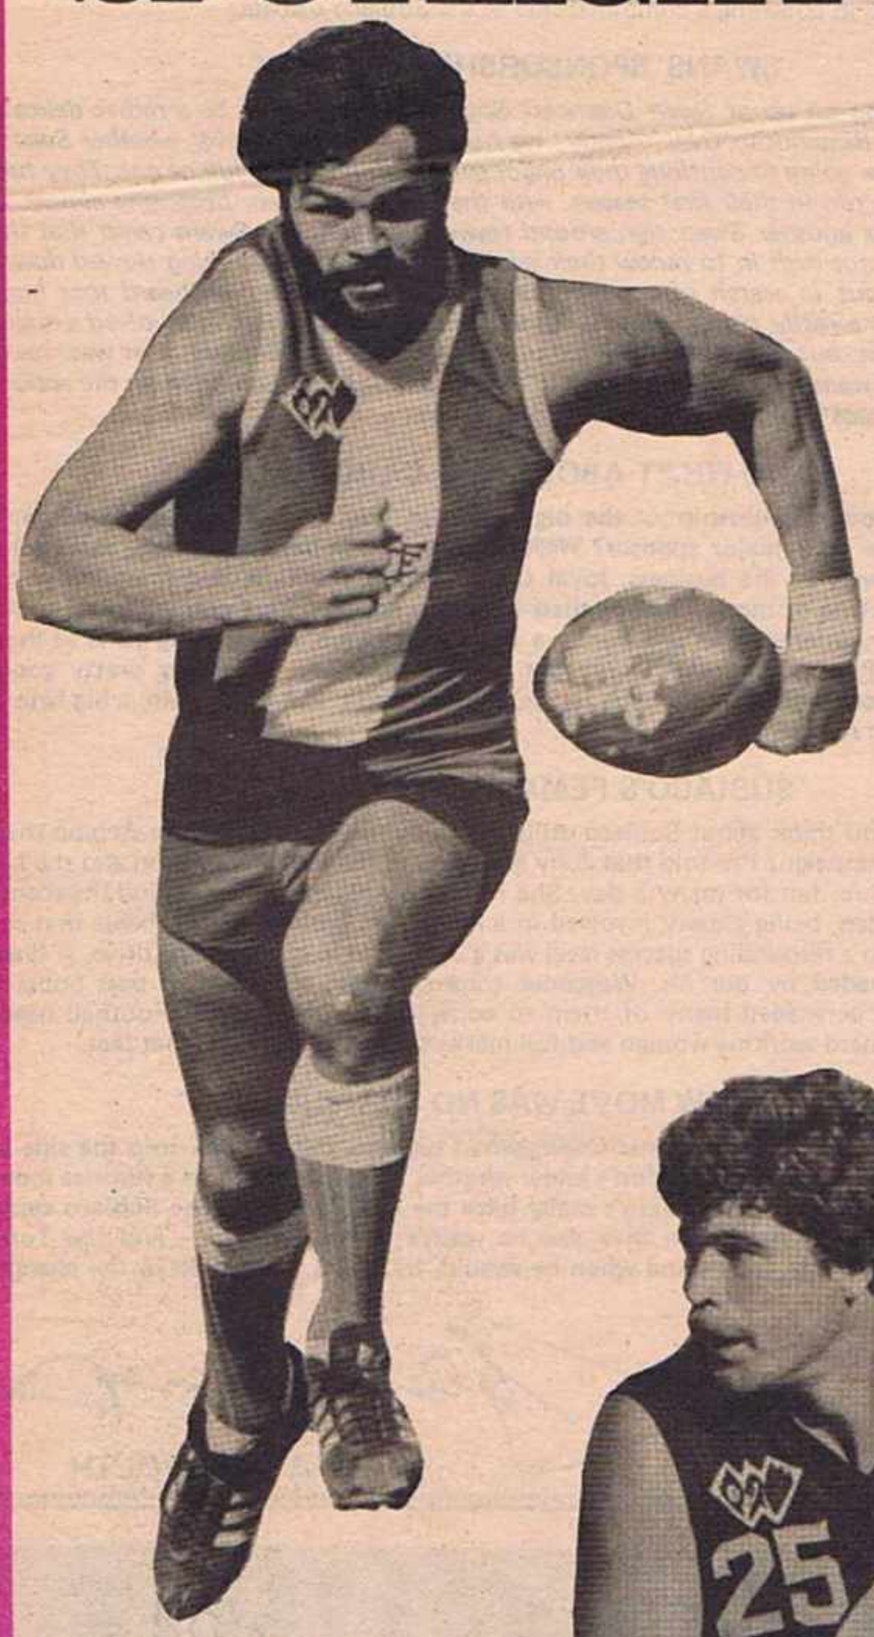
SWAN GOLD SPOTLIGHT



THE CAPTAINS

HOW important is a captain to a football side?

Being named to lead a team on the field is considered to be a tremendous honour; a title bestowed on a fooballer generally by the committee and almost certainly after considerable thought.

The role is taken seriously by the players; it places them on some sort of pedestal within their club; they are the leaders, the on-field director of operations and the man who has to set the example, both as a player and a salvationist.

Off the field, the captain has to be the man who reflects the thinking, the behaviour, the attitudes of the players. He must liaise with the heirarchy, carry out the duties of his coach (if he is not a playing coach); assist in selection and generally be a man of many parts.

These are our eight league captains . . . . and they all have important roles in today's football.

BRIAN PEAKE (East Fremantle): Any man who steps into the shoes of a player like Doug Green, an outstanding leader and a football gentleman, must be expected to perform at the highest level. Peake, a 26-year-old squash court operator, lays claim to being Australia's top footballer. He has continually resisted offers to move to Victoria — though he admits he will probably go eventually — and he has won all the major awards — Sandover Medal (1977) and Tassie Medal in last year's inaugural State-of-Origin carnival. Peake is a natural captain; he can fulfil almost any role on the football field as required by his coach and he does any duty with the minimum of fuss and the maximum of success. His ability to inspire the side on the field is matched by his fierce loyalty off the field and his desire to continually maintain the standards of his football club, WA's most traditional club.

STAN NOWOTNY (Swan Districts): Any player who has the physical strength to guide a side through lean periods on the field and the morale strength to help a young, struggling side off the field has the ingredients to be a captain. Nowotny, a 29-year-old building industry sales representative, has led Swans on the field since 1977 and he is now reaping the reward of helping mould a young, enthusiastic team into potential premiership winners. When coach John Todd was given the unenviable task of rebuilding the Swans camp, Nowotny was his right-hand man and on the field he set the example for physical courage, for scrambling after the ball, for fierce tackling, for tough, competitive football. Off the field he was the leader of this emerging band of young men — and few would begrudge him the right to hold the premiership trophy in this, the year of his 200th league game.

GRAHAM MOSS (Claremont): If the days of playing coaches are numbered, then Moss, the 29-year-old captain-coach of Claremont, is doing his best to disprove that theory. Moss returned to his old club in 1977 after claiming the nation's highest individual award — the Brownlow Medal for the fairest and best footballer in Victoria. At the relatively tender age of 25, he turned his back on the lucrative VFL fields and the rewards that go with a Brownlow and returned to coach Claremont. The engineer-turned-real estate consultant struggled in his early coaching days, but never faltered in his other role, that of captain out on the field. When Claremont slowed down in their football application it was Moss who carried the team on his shoulders. That he has been relegated to the runners-up position in two successive Sandover Medal counts is one of football's twists of fate — and the penalty he paid for being a team man and a leader. There would be many fans who feel that Moss deserves the double honour this year — but his No. 1 priority is simply to hold up that premiership trophy.

LES FONG (West Perth): Football has had many mixed emotions for one of the smallest men in the game. But a highlight was the opening game of the 1980 WAFL season when Fong led the Cardinals on to the ground at Subiaco Oval for the first time. It marked a long and often hazardous journey up through the ranks, starting with his debut as a raw-boned 16-year-old kid back in 1973 to his appearance as hardened No. 1 rover in 1980. Fong, a school teacher, is now 23 and a veteran of more than 125 league games. He knows how to take knocks and how to beat injury — and it is his courage as a rover around the bottom — and inside — of packs that sets the example for courage at West Perth. There are few prouder men in football — and his ability to maintain high standards of discipline off the field is the type of leadership required in a captain.

NOEL CARTER (South Fremantle): There has been a high casualty rate among Victorian recruits in recent seasons — far too many have returned home in disgrace. But one who stayed and conquered in fine style has been Carter, a former Richmond rover and a man who was the surprise choice of South Fremantle's leader last season after only one year with the WA club. But he proved to be an outstanding captain; a cool, calm, collected rover whose inspirational football and his steadiness was the on-field ingredient that the club required. Carter, a 25-year-old sales representative, played his early football in Tasmania — a feat that enabled him to represent his state in last year's state-of-origin carnival in Perth. This year he has risen to the challenge of filling in at centre and his courageous football has inspired South to overcome a bout of injuries to key players.

WIM ROSBENDER (Perth): Football has few tragedies, but when they occur they leave deep, indelible marks on many people. When Wim Rosbender was taken to hospital with a serious facial injury early last season, his football career looked over. Bitter and disillusioned, he announced his retirement and hung up his boots; his face badly mauled by a on-field incident that left a sour taste in many mouths. So it was with a certain amount of joy that Perth fans — and football supporters generally — welcomed the gentle giant back into the training rooms this year; a change of mind that proved to everyone that football was his first love. Now the 29-year-old sales representative is leading Perth for the first time; providing valued on-field leadership as a player and a mentor to the young Demons. His return to the league arena will almost certainly enable him to reach the 150-game milestone this year — and few men deserve life membership of their football club more than Rosbender.

IAN MILLER (East Perth): It was almost inevitable that Miller, the 1972 Sandover Medallist, would eventually captain East Perth. Miller, a 30-year-old sports store proprietor and son of a former Perth champion Bob Miller, was the centre of a clearance wrangle two years ago when he decided to return from Victoria to finish his playing career in his home state. After 132 games with Perth and 80 with Fitzroy, he accepted an offer to play with East Perth — reuniting himself with former Demons coach Barry Cable. After winning a hotly-disputed clearance, Miller went on to be an instrumental player in East Perth's premiership, climaxing his year with a Simpson Medal in the grand final. A great link man as a ruck-rover, a solid player as a defender, Miller is the ideal captain; a true leader of men.

BRIAN DOUGE (Subiaco): Football success has eluded Douge since moving to Western Australia from Victoria . . . . and that is something foreign to a man who was a member of the highly-successful Hawthorn football side. But through the failures — both as a coach of Subiaco and a member of a team that has only won 15 games in three seasons — his spirit and football character has triumphed. He has served as an on-field leader in a team that has lacked experience and he has provided guidance and shown by his courageous feats that perfection is what is required to survive. Douge, a highly-qualified 28-year-old physical education lecturer, is a physical fitness fanatic whose ability to rise above injuries and play on regardless is an example well worth following.

SUNDAY SCENE

ROVING CLASH A HIGHLIGHT

W.A.F.A.

The clash between Wanneroo's ace rover Ross Parker and Cockburn's Roger Kerr will be a highlight of the fifth round of WAFA fixtures on Sunday.

Wanneroo, the league leaders, clash with fourth-placed Cockburn in the match-of-the-day at Kingsway Reserve.

Wanneroo, looking set to win their second consecutive premiership, have had great service from the former Swan Districts and Claremont rover. But Kerr, a little-known player in the competition, has been in top form this year and is partly responsible for his team's position on the ladder.

Cockburn lost their first game when they were beaten by Applecross last week and they will find the powerful Wanneroo an even tougher proposition with players like Laurie Richards, Max Rayner, Terry Seiner, Noel Knights and Colin Northcott all in top form.

Big Cockburn full-back Ken Mellowship will have his work cut out keeping full-forward Northcott in check. The former West Perth star has booted 21 goals in the last three games and with the expected midfield dominance of the Wanneroo players, he is likely to be well-fed with opportunities.

Melville's hopes of making the final four in their first season of WAFA should take a further tumble when they play the strong South Perth side at Stock Road Reserve.

South Perth are sitting in third spot and with Brian Higgins, Barry Stockden, Ric Marshall and Gary Diver all playing well, South look to have too much depth for the former amateur club.

Applecross, the big improvers this season, should consolidate their second place on the list by beating Mosman Park at Shirley Strickland Oval.

Mosman won their first game last week when they beat Melville, but there appears little chance of them repeating it this week against a team that boasts players like Greg Naylor, Len Ritchie, Mick Pember, Frank Treasure and Ray Davies.

Metropolitans-Victoria Park and Osborne Park, the two sides yet to have a win, clash in the remaining game at Forster Park.

The table at present is: Wanneroo 16; Applecross 12; South Perth 12; Cockburn 12; Melville 8; Mosman Park 4; Mets-Vic Park 0; Osborne Park 0.

TOP GAME FOR PERTH OVAL

W.A. AMATEUR F.L.

Old Wesley and Nollamara, both undefeated, should provide the game of the day in a top clash at Perth Oval this Saturday.

The winner will grab top spot and the loser will slip to third unless University (also undefeated) go down unexpectedly to CBC.

Both Nollamara and Old Wesley would be worthy winners as both have improved on last seasons efforts, even at this early part of the season.

Last weeks results were University 19.19 d Bayswater 14.9. CBC 15.8 d Carlisle 13.17 in a very hard contest with Carlisle's inaccurate kicking costing them dearly. Wembley 16.9 struggled against a greatly improved Collegians 15.10.

Old Wesley 14.14 inflicted a first, on the field defeat for highly fancied Mt Lawley 10.10. Nollamara 16.13 saved only by a last quarter effort defeated Maylands 14.11.

Collegians should register their first 'A' division win against Bayswater at Claremont Oval. Both teams have improved in recent weeks, but Collegians were impressive and possibly unlucky in the closing minutes against Wembley. CBC bounced back and snatched victory from Carlisle last Saturday (and also awarded the opening game against Mt Lawley through that club playing an ineligable player), however University should make it 4 wins on end, that game will be played at East Fremantle Oval.

Carlisle always hard to beat at their home ground, Carlisle Reserve, should find Wembley too difficult unless they can produce four even quarters of team football.

Wembley have struggled to match their reputation and have to win to stay within touch of the top teams. In the Maylands, Mt Lawley contest at Bassendean Oval both teams should provide a game that will provide all of the skills and pace that is a part of top amateur football. Mt Lawley smarting from their recent loss and relegation on the premiership table must win to gain lost ground, Maylands have the ruck power to cause an upset.

The Table is: Old Wesley (254%) 12, Nollamara (166%) 12, University (166%) 12, Wembley (88%) 8, CBC (40%) 8, Maylands (100%) 4, Mt Lawley (92%) 4, Collegians (75%) 0, Bayswater (57%) 0, Carlisle (55%) 0.

In 'B' division Swanbourne coached by former Swan Districts and Claremont league player Peter Webb has invited any under 20 year olds in their area to play with their colts team who have stuggled for players. The club secretary can be contacted on 384 2778.

SUNDAY MERGER CLOSER

The shock decision by the South Suburban-Murray National Football League to disaffiliate from the WA Football League is certain to lead to a new-look Sunday competition. South Suburban and the other major Sunday competition, WA Football Association, are now odds-on to merge. The fact that the South Suburban was affiliated with the WAFL was one of the major stumbling blocks to a merger in the past.

MADDINGTON'S BUBBLE BURSTS

Est. 1961 Affiliated with the W.A.N.F.L. S.S.M N.F.L.

The Maddington bubble burst last week . . . and now Canning remain as the only unbeaten side in the South Suburban-Murray competition.

Canning's successful mixture of quick little men and creative big men proved too much of a powerful combination for boom side Maddington, resulting in a comfortable four-goal victory.

Canning's key forward Ken Lowden and ruck-rover Bob Garman held control in the big-man departments and once again dynamic little rover Alan Wheelock took the honours on the ball. Maddington, beaten but not disgraced, got good value out of ruckman David Glendinning — and he will obviously improve with the run — and centre-half-forward Mick O'Shannassy was in blistering form.

Both sides have the chance to go on with things this week with Canning away to Kalamunda — who slumped badly against Kenwick — and Maddington away to Armadale, who also disappointed by losing easily to Willetton after breaking the ice a week earlier.

The thriller of the day last Sunday was Kwinana's one-point win over Gosnells in a great contest.

Former East Fremantle star Tony Micale rediscovered some of his old mastery to guide Kwinana to victory and this week they travel to Rockingham and should grab another valuable four points.

Gosnells, who have now lost two in a row after a hat-trick of victories, are home to Kenwick, whose form returned last Sunday with their 14-goal thrashing over Kalamunda.

Gosnells are getting good value out of several former East Fremantle colts players, particularly Arthur Jones on a wing, and they will need consistent games out of players like Nigel Williamson and Trevor Williams as they front up to Kenwick.

Kelmscott gave their supporters a boost in confidence when they beat Rockingham by 16 goals, with Russell Aitken recapturing his old form and Ray Witt again proving a match-winner in attack. This week they are at home to Thornlie, who have hit rock bottom after four straight losses since their opening-game victory at the expense of Rockingham.

Thornlie coach Hans Verstegen has bundles of troubles and even though new recruit Geoff Peet is doing well in attack, the side is being let down by other key players.

Mandurah stormed back into the victory circle with their 12-goal drubbing of Thornlie, with big ruckman Glen Hurst again showing strong form on the ball. Their clash at home this week with Willetton should be a tight contest as Willetton showed plenty of goalkicking potential with their 25-goal slaughter of Armadale.

Ruck-rover Kim Barrett has given the side a lift since winning a clearance from Kelmscott and though Willetton are conceding the homeground advantage, they should make Mandurah fight for the points.

Armadale let their supporters down badly on Sunday by losing so easily to Willetton after winning over Thornlie in impressive style a week earlier. They have the chance to atone to a certain extent by putting up a much more competitive display at home to Maddington this week.

JUNIOR QUIZ

GREAT PRIZES FOR JUNIORS EVERY WEEK

Sorry kids, our questions must be too hard for you!

Even though most of our questions in the Junior Quiz are taken out of the Football 150 book, they are proving hard to answer. It is surprising how many of our younger football fans come up with the wrong answers.

The tricky question in Quiz No. 3 was the second question about who has the highest tally of league games among today's footballers. Most entrants said Graham Moss, who has just passed the 250-game mark.

But, of course, WA's "top recruit" of 1980 — Swan Districts rover Graham Melrose, is the top player in games played this year. Melrose, who won the Sandover Medal in 1974, when he led East Fremantle to the flag, played 140 games with Old Easts and then notched 118 games with North Melbourne. His debut at Swans this year meant that he passed the 260-game mark, just edging out Moss.

Our winner of Quiz No. 3 was Greg Nicholas, of Samson, who obviously reads Westside Football closely as Melrose's games were published in our Know Your Players section earlier this year.

So kids, get your football books out and do your homework a bit harder to make sure you come up with the right answers for this week's quiz, No. 5.

Adidas and Chesson are combining to bring you more than a $1,000 worth of prizes with each weekly winner collecting a great Chesson footy in their favourite club colours, plus an Adidas bag to carry all your football gear.

Kids, just send your entry coupon to Westside Football, Post Office Box 153, Morley, and remember, entries close the Friday after publication.

QUEENS PARK ARE BIG IMPROVERS

Though early in the season with only three sets of fixtures played, it is most interesting to note that the strongest club through the grades is the young Queens Park club.

So far the club has undefeated sides in grades 10 years, 12 years and 14 years, and its 16 years team has only lost one game.

Yet to win a premiership in any grade in the Perth Junior Football Council competitions, this club's showing so far this season has set the pace for the other clubs and sounding fair warning that this could be Queen's Park's year.

The most successful club over many years, Manning, also have undefeated sides in the 10 years and 14 years contests and is only one game down in the 12 years while its 16 years team has drawn one game and won two.

The PJFC Champion Club for the past three years, Carlisle, is undefeated in the 12 years, has drawn one game and won two in the 16 years, and lost only one game each in the 10 years and 14 years competitions indicating that this club will still be a contender for this season's Club Championship.

A revitalised South Perth club has fared badly in the 14 years and 16 years age groups, but must be encouraged by its undefeated 10 years team and its 12 years side which has lost only one game so far this season.

The Canning club has its 12 years side still undefeated and its 10 years team, though having lost one game, won by an incredible 44 goals last Sunday.

The Centrals club, which is experiencing great difficulties with numbers in its older age group, has an undefeated 14 years team.

East Victoria Park is undefeated in the 16 years competition but is struggling in the other age group contests.

Though it would be foolish for anybody to predict the 1980 premier sides in the Perth Junior Football Council competitions at this stage of the season, any long range forecasting would have Queens Park in the 10 years and 14 years contests, Carlisle in the 12 years and East Victoria Park in the 16 years, as favourites.

RESURGENCE OF 17's COMPETITION

With the 1980 season now two weeks old, competition in all age groups of the Subiaco Junior Football Council is fast developing, particularly in the higher age divisions.

The year has seen a resurgence of the 17-year-old competition with nine teams competing.

Under the leadership of David Orr, the Development Officer at Subiaco, a more professional attitude is being developed by both players and coaches.

Last year saw the introduction of a new club into the Subiaco Junior Council, that being Northern Districts.

The two men responsible for the formation were Dave Lyndsay and Eddy Herald as they saw a need for boys, just north of the Warwick area, to be allowed to participate in junior football.

The club was officially formed on April 9, 1979 and at the first annual general meeting Dave Lyndsay was elected president and Eddy Herald vice president.

With the help of several willing parents, the first recruiting day produced enough numbers to field four teams, 8s, 9s, 10s and 14s.

The season was plagued with problems, not the least being injuries, thus resulting in a shortage of players especially in the older teams. However, no one was deterred and so through hard work and a little luck the committee entered into an ambitious programme of organising a lightning carnival at the end of the season for teams missing out in the finals.

The carnival proved a huge success.

Although the club finished the 1979 season with few wins, less money and numerous headaches — satisfaction was achieved in seeing 80 odd boys participate in junior football, some for the first time, for the sheer joy of the sport, win, lose or draw.

That is all history and with a new and enthusiastic committee under the guidance of Eddy Herald were determined to double their efforts for the 1980 season.

So from a humble beginning in 1979 with four teams to 12 teams in 1980 (6-8s, 2-9s, 2-10s, 1-11s, 1-13s) the committee has the opportunity and satisfaction in seeing these young lads develop into not only good footballers but sportsmen and first class citizens of the future.

LIVE-IN JUNIOR CAMPS

The WAFL is involved in two special live-in camps for juniors footballers in the May school holidays. The first will see 120 boys selected from the 15-year-old age bracket among the eight league clubs to live in at the Ern Halliday recreation centre at Sorrento in the first week of the holidays. The second week will see the staging of Alcoa's multi-sport camp at the same venue with 120 boys and girls aged between 15 and 17 representing five different sports taking part.

Country League Review

The South West National Football League

TOP COUNTRY LEAGUE HAS PROUD RECORD

The South West National Football League, recognised as the strongest competition outside the metropolitan area, has a short, but most impressive history.

Formed at a meeting in Collie in 1953, the league was first known as the Bunbury-Collie League, as these two centres provided all but one of the original clubs.

The league took until 1966 to settle down into its present club structure and since then hasn't looked back . . . winning seven country championship titles in the past decade.

Competition started in 1953 with seven sides. The town of Bunbury provided three clubs — Pastime, South Bunbury and Bunbury-Railways; while Collie had the Mines Rovers, Collie-Railways and Centrals clubs. Donnybrook made up the seventh team.

Later clubs from West and East Busselto, Boyanup-Capel, Harvey-Brunswick and Augusta-Margaret River joined the league.

During the league's first 13 years, there were several changes — Bunbury Railways dropped the word "Railways" from their title, Centrals and Collie-Railways amalgamated to form the Collie club, West and East Busselton combined to form the Busselton club, Pastime changed their name to Carey Park, and Boyanup-Capel added "Dardanup" to their title.

All teams in the competition — apart from Boyanup-Capel-Dardanup and Augusta-Margaret River — have won premierships.

Umpiring in the South West has developed in recent seasons. Like many other country competitions, the SWNFL draws umpires from the WAFL panel. However, since last season, they now only use two WAFL umpires each week, the other three plus all reserves and colts umpires come from the local panel.

Since inception, the league has had only three leaders. The first president was Reg Earl, of Collie, who was succeeded in 1957 by Percy Payne. He held the post until 1965 when current president Bob Black was elected to the chair.

During the same period, the league has also had only four secretaries. The first was J. Richards, who was followed by Ted Mason, Lionel Smith, Clem Owens and current secretary Ray Kelly.

The league, which is split between East Perth and Swans Districts in country zoning, has produced dozens of footballers that have graduated to WAFL stardom.

● Bob Black ● Clem Owens

South Bunbury gave East Fremantle their 1971 Sandover Medallist David Hollins and the same club produced the great Sydney Jackson.

Duel Sandover Medallist Phil Kelly camp up through the ranks of the Busselton club playing in their league since 1975.

Last year, the South West National Football League had 15 of its "products" playing league football with WAFL sides. East Fremantle's 1979 premiership coach, Bradley Smith started his football with Boyanup-Capel-Dardanup.

BIG CA$H AWARDS

The E.G. Green and Sons award is the single biggest cash prize award for the SWNFL this year.

The firm has committed $1,000 to be split between the two rounds and awarded to the clubs scoring the highest points at the end of each round.

Points are awarded on a basis of one point to the highest scorer in each quarter and two points for a win.

PLAYER AWARD

The "Player-of-the-Year" will receive $500 cash made available by the Town and Country Building Society.

This is a new award for the SWNFL.

It was announced in Bunbury recently by former Busselton player and duel Sandover Medallist Phil Kelly.

Performance record

South Bunbury hold the best premiership record of the SWNFL clubs.

Since the formation of the league, the club has taken part in 15 grand finals, winning nine.

To take their performance record a little further, since 1957 the club has played 427 games and has won 287. They have finished on top of the ladder five times.

Easily the most unluckiest side in the league is Harvey-Brunswick. Of nine grand final appearances, they have managed only three premierships. Their overall record is quite impressive — in 422 matches they have won 272.

Busselton have made seven grand final appearances and have notched three pennants.

Bunbury's grand final record is excellent compared with their overall performances. From five grand final appearances, the club has won four premierships. However, they tie with Collie on 213 for the second highest tally of losses.

● Dual Hayward Medallist Ross Tyson.

SWNFL RECORDS

Highest score: April 8, 1979: Bunbury 37.18 (240) b Collie 10.7 (67). Lowest score: August 13, 1961: Carey Park 0.4 beaten by Harvey Brunswick 7.9. August 23, 1964: Carey Park 0.4 beaten by Mines Rovers 7.12.

LEAGUE OPENS NEW PREMISES

The South West National Football League recently opened its own modern premises in Bunbury.

The building incorporates a meeting room, viewing lounge, storage area and social function room. It provides an environment for better administration, replacing the previously rented premises in Bunbury.

It is believed the building is valued in excess of $50,000 but cost the league only $22,000. The bulk of the work was carried out by the pre-apprentice groups from the Bunbury Technical College.

The building adjoins the city end of the grandstand at the league's playing headquarters . . . Hands Memorial Oval.

It is believed that the league may be the only country football administrative body in Australia to own its own premises.

Hands Memorial Oval — one of three league grounds located in Bunbury — is generally recognised as the top football arena outside the WAFL area.

The League is fortunate to have first rate grounds in most of the nine towns in which it conducts matches.

In recent years new grounds have been developed in Donnybrook, Bunbury (two) and Busselton, whilst other centres have spent many thousands of dollars upgrading existing facilities.

A plan for the SWNFL to develop its own ground at Picton (near Bunbury) in the early sixties fell through.

The idea . . . the brainchild of late league president, Mr. P.C. Payne . . . was born after a disagreement between the SWNFL and the Bunbury Town Council which prevented a single match of football being played in Bunbury during the 1960 season.

The dispute which resulted in Bunbury's three clubs all having to play their home matches out of town arose over a disagreement on terms for ground rental.

When the dispute was resolved in time for normal fixtures to resume in Bunbury in 1961 the ground development plan disappeared from the drawing board.

PIKE MEDAL

The SWNFL's equivalent of the WAFL's Simpson Medal is the Pike Medal.

The Pike medal was first presented by its donor, the late Jack Pike, in 1956.

Since Mr. Pike's death, the award has been carried on annually by his son Les.

In its earlier years the medal was presented to the fairest and best player in interleague matches as well as SWNFL grand finals. Nowadays, Pike Medals are won only by the fairest and best player in SWNFL grand finals.

Many champions have won top award

THE South West National Football League's top award each season is the Hayward Medal. It is the equivalent of the WAFL's Sandover Medal.

The Medal was first awarded in the old Bunbury Football Association in 1946 when Reg Hayes was the inaugural winner.

When the SWNFL was formed, the Hayward Medal continued as the major award.

Mines Rovers champion Mayne Coverley is the only player to have won the medal three times. He achieved the hat-trick in 1956, 1957 amd 1958.

Ironically, one of only four players to have won two Medals — Bob Farquhar — won the medal in 1955 immediately before Coverley's run, and won his second medal in 1959, the year after the Mines Rovers player's hat-trick.

Sydney Jackson won the 1961 and 1962 Medals and another South Bunbury player, Terry House, won the medal in 1969 and 1973.

He was later runner-up for the Medal in 1976 while playing for Harvey-Brunswick.

Last year's Medallist Ross Tyson, also won the medal in 1976.

Collie and Harvey-Brunswick are the only two clubs in the league which have not produced Medallists.

LEAGUE WELL SERVED BY MEDIA

The South West National Football League is served well by media in its area.

Four newspapers, The South Western Times, Collie Mail, Busselton Margaret Times and South West Coastal Advertiser give the league and its clubs wide coverage.

Radio stations 6TZ Bunbury and 6CI Collie broadcast the match of the day each Sunday and conducts a preview each Sunday morning.

The league also has an official weekly Budget, now in its twenty-first year of publication. This year it has been expanded to 24 pages.

In recent seasons the league has had its own publicity officer which has helped promote the league's image through the local media.

Kevin Lynn, the first person to hold this post, retired at the end of last season. His efforts have left the league with many valuable records . . . the result of countless hours of painstaking research.

Peter Ellson, a Bunbury real estate representative has replaced Lynn this season.

Bud has the credentials

Mr. Bud Byfield has been president of the Western Australian Country Football League since its inception eight years ago.

And he certainly has the credentials to fill this demanding position.

At 14, Mr. Byfield captained the WA State schoolboys team which beat Victoria in 1938.

Two years later, he earned a regular spot in the Claremont league team playing on the half-forward-flank and filled a number of other roles as well.

In 1946, the outstanding young player was recruited by Melbourne in the VFL.

After a stint there, he returned to WA to continue his football career.

Mr. Byfield says he has been involved in football for more than 40 years.

"There have been some very satisfying moments during that time", he said.

New cash award for Pilbara

Football in the Pilbara received a boost recently with the announcement of a new $500 Footballer-of-the-Year award.

Pilbara Motors, in conjunction with the New Pilbara Times, have launched the award for the best player in the De Grey and West Pilbara National Football League.

★ ★ ★

KARRATHA TOPS AGAIN !

Karratha, the premiership titleholders in the De Grey and West Pilbara league, look set to be the side to beat again this season.

Karratha have lost former East Fremantle player Rex Townsend, but in Brad Trevenen they have a forward who is difficult to counter.

Panthers should be their main rivals and experienced coach Harry Newman has moulded together a strong-looking side.

★ ★ ★

TOUGH STUFF

There was no shortage of the heavy physical stuff when Nukarni tackled with Southern Cross in the Eastern Districts league recently.

Nukarni rover David Haines suffered a dislocated shoulder early in the game and Southern Cross served notice that they will be touch competitors, despite going down to Nukarni in the opening match.

COUNTRY CARDIES

West Perth must be pleased with the young players it has recruited from its country zones in the Eastern Districts Football League and Central Wheatbelt Football League.

Former Kondinin dasher, Bill Duckworth, has found his niche in the league side at centre-half-forward.

Before this, Duckworth was a specialist half forward flanker with no aspirations of playing in a key position.

Also showing plenty of promise is ruckman-cum-forward Graeme Seaby from Mukinbudin.!

Seaby had a conspicuous start to the season but has gone from strength to strength.

WHEATBELT CLINICS

The WAFL's development officer, Richard Walker, held several coaching clinics through the eastern wheatbelt areas recently.

He was accompanied by four West Perth players—Martin Briggs, Peter Kelleher, Ron Fuller and Brent Clark—as the travelling clinic went through Merredin, Narembeen, Southern Cross and Corrigin.

The clinics were sponsored by the West Perth Football Club and the Town and Country Permanent Building Society.

★ ★ ★

BUTCHER UMPIRE

Former WAFL league panel umpire Ray Chinnery has moved into the butchering business.

Chinnery, who was manager of the Perenjori Sports Club for a while, has taken over a butchers shop in the town.

★ ★ ★

"SEND-OFF" TRIAL

The Carnarvon-Gascoyne Football Association has adopted the send-off rule for the 1980 season as a trial experiment.

The central umpire has been given the power to send players off for 15-minute periods for what have previously been minor reportable offences such as swearing or fighting.

PREMIERS PRIZE

The Central Midlands Football League have renewed their sponsorship of $300 for the premiership side with the firm of RBR Machinery, who are the Chamberlain-John Deere distributors in the district.

WAFL MAN SPEAKS OUT

The WA Football League has taken issue with people who have suggested that they do not do enough to promote football throughout the State.

The WAFL's development officer, Richard Walker, has defended the league's work, particularly in country areas and in the junior development field.

In a letter to Westside Football, Mr Walker has outlined just a few of the league's activities in country areas particularly.

His letter says in part:

"In recent issues of your excellent periodical, which is keenly sought by football followers, several subscribers have been critical of the promotion of football throughout the State.

"I believe that these people are somewhat misinformed and wish to point out that the WAFL, in conjunction with sponsors, has allocated more than $60,000 to the development and promotion of junior football and country football for this season alone.

"This is in addition to more than $200,000 which will be spent by the eight league clubs during the forthcoming year.

"The league receives substantial support from the Department for Youth, Sport and Recreation and major sponsors such as Town and Country Permanent Building Society and Wesfarmers in junior and country football activities respectively."

Mr Walker, who has spent most of the last four weeks touring country areas staging coaching clinics and advising on football development, has outlined some of the achievements made this year.

Promotional visits and coaching sessions have been held in places like Kalgoorlie, Merredin, Albany, Ongerup, Jerramungup, Katanning, Narrogin, Northam, Goomalling, Busselton and Pinjarra.

Other visits are planned throughout the season and clubs like East Fremantle — who hold annual schools clinics throughout their zone early in May — are often venturing into the country.

"In addition to these forms of promotion of our game, clinics for umpires, coaches, trainers (injuries), administrators and parents are conducted so that up to date techniques are readily available" Mr Walker said.

"During the school holidays and at other times the League also conducts camps for both players and umpires.

"Unfortunately, there will always be times when clubs, players and the League are committed to other ventures and they cannot accommodate requests from clubs, schools and so forth.

"However, I can assure you that more is now being done and will be done in the future to promote this great game of ours throughout the whole State than ever in the past.

"Should you or any of your readers wish any of these matters clarified further please do not hesitate to contact the League."

WAFL Club Review

CLAREMONT

CONSISTENCY IS THE OBJECTIVE

Claremont must aim to maintain a consistency of performance, according to the President of the club, Wally Maskiell.

It has been obvious in the past few years that Claremont have found it difficult to put together a string of wins.

It has been even clearer that they traditionally start the season well and then seem to falter.

Efforts like this have earnt them the tag of "April Premiers". Murmurings of this phrase have already been heard this season, when referring to Claremont.

Already their inconsistency has come to the fore. After a pre-season blitz which saw them undefeated, the Tigers crashed at the hands of West Perth, a side who were not highly thought of at that stage.

But Mr Maskiell remains optimistic.

"I am not a great believer in past history and I think the mind must be dedicated to ridding itself of the past and getting on with something new" he said.

At the same time Mr Maskiell is quick to admit he is not an admirer of Claremont's past history.

"Graham Moss has demonstrated that things can change and we all realise we have to rectify our finals performance".

Mr Maskiell believes if Claremont can develop more consistency and improve their play under finals pressure, then they can win a premiership.

He linked performance with sponsorship.

"In football, this is the era of promotion and sponsorship and performance is critical".

"A top competition will improve revenue to the W.A.F.L. in which Claremont has a one-eighth share." Mr Maskiell payed tribute to the vital role played by the Kelloggs company in promoting the Claremont Football Club.

"Their sponsorship has enabled us to do things we could not do before."

The Kelloggs Cup competition for juniors has been in operation for three years and in Claremont's first game this year, the colts side housed 13 players from this competition.

"We have been able to employ a full-time football development officer who has provided us with a close liaison with the schools in our district and the country areas."

According to Mr Maskiell, the day of the non-playing coach is limited. He foresees a time in the near future when consideration will have to be given to full-time coaches.

"Graham Moss is in close contact with me every day and I could not be happier with my association with him."

"He virtually plays the role of a full time coach."

To Mr Maskiell, performance on the field is obviously critical.

"If Claremont is to develop and increase their membership they must give the best possible, both on and off the field."

"The members financial support over and above the required committment is important."

"In the 80s Claremont is aiming to become a top competitor, both on and off the field, in the W.A.F.L."

"I've still got plenty to learn" — Graham Moss

Graham Moss faced one of his toughest decisions back in 1976 — to be loyal to WA and suffer financially or to be a little bit selfish and cash in on his name.

Moss had just won Australia's highest football honour—the Brownlow Medal for the fairest and best player in the Victorian Football League.

The win usually reaps a financial harvest for the successful player each year with the lucrative VFL commercial market producing open cheque books to sign the top player of the year up on contracts.

But Moss had a desire to return to his home-town club, Claremont, and tackle the role of coaching.

The big ruckman shattered the VFL and their own image that nothing else matters outside Victoria when he turned his back on Melbourne and returned to Claremont Oval to take over a struggling side.

Since then his coaching days have not been easy; he has suffered setbacks, even failures in his approach to the role. He has seen success just around the corner only to be thwarted in his attempts to achieve the ultimate — a premiership.

But Moss is not sorry about his 1976 decision.

"I've learnt a lot in the years since then," he says.

"I still think I've got plenty more to learn; you can never stop learning as a coach, particularly when it comes to handling players or situations.

"Handling situations like last year's failure to fire in the finals is the sort of thing that I have to learn to overcome."

Claremont's problems of 1980 have emerged in the last few weeks as they have slumped to three losses in four games; a big set-back after their brilliant start to the season with three Escort Championship victories.

But Moss doesn't see the problems as being insurmountable.

"All teams face slumps like the one we are experiencing," says Moss.

"Our players need to be motivated again; I believe that motivation is an important aspect of football and not enough time is put into it in relation to preparing players for games.

"The slump is a combination of a number of things — attitude particularly. I think some of our players got themselves to a peak nice and early in the season and then tended to relax mentally after a good start.

"We have had a few injury worries over the last four weeks as well. A lot of our senior players are not playing consistently enough, so it means we just have to find a way to freshen up their approach.

"We have too much depth and too much talent in the club to slip out of contention this year.

"Even last week's game against Swans wasn't all that disappointing. We put a lot more thought into the game and we played reasonably well against a top-class side who were in good form.

"But the real test comes this week — we must beat South Fremantle or lose touch with the upper half. It's as simple as that."

TOYOTA'S WESTSIDE RATINGS

WA's ORIGINAL PLAYER RATING CHARTS

LITTLE MEN DOMINATING

The little men are still proving to be the dominators in WA football.

The $1000 Toyota Westside Ratings weekly contest has little men right out in front after ... games.

South Fremantle's dynamic captain Noel Carter is still setting the pace and another eight-pointer against Subiaco last week gives him the lead on 31 points.

He is being hotly pressed by another captain and rover — West Perth's Les Fong, who picked up eight points to stay just one vote behind Carter.

Even third place is held by a little man — Swan Districts rover Gerry Neesham is continuing his match-winning form and he picked up eight votes last week against Claremont to move up to 29 points.

The battle for the $50 player-of-the-round award is getting pretty intense with three matches to go and none of the top bracket players can afford a bad game.

The ultimate winner of Toyota's annual award will receive $500 with $50 going to the top vote-getters in each of the other seven clubs.

The letters "i" and "r" will often appear on the lists and they represent "injured" or "reserve". If a player is injured during a match, then his rating will be based on his performance up to the time he left the ground. The same applies to a player who is a reserve — his rating will be gauged on how he performed during his spell on the ground.

WESTSIDE WINNERS

PERTH v EAST PERTH

FRED WOODS: I told you last week that East Perth aren't going too well. Perth will send them off this week.

WEST PERTH v EAST FREMANTLE

ALAN EAST: Old Easts restored morale last week—but a classy and very much under-rated Cardies will run them off their feet this week.

SOUTH FREMANTLE v CLAREMONT

BOB CRIBB: My tip is that Stephen Michael is in big trouble physically and that he will crack in this game. Claremont to win and bounce back as premiership favourites.

SUBIACO v SWAN DISTRICTS

MARTY McDONNELL: Sorry Subi, but Ken Armstrong hasn't been with you long enough yet to work miracles. Swans will drown you in their goalkicking deluge.

PICKET SNIPPETS

SATISFYING DAY

It was satisfying to see young Subiaco player Brian Taylor do well against South Fremantle last Saturday. Taylor, a 19-year-old graduate from Woodlands, put in a 30-kick performance in what was his first full league game. Taylor has played two league games and a number of other practice matches — but he has never had a full match. He has always been an interchange player, but now that he has tasted a full four quarters, his confidence will be boosted.

SPINDLES' DEBUT

Still at Subiaco . . . the Lions have uncovered a youngster from Waroona by the name of Tony Smith who shows great potential as a forward. Nicknamed Spindles, the 21-year-old Smith is a laconic, casual type of player — and his dry comment after his debut against South Fremantle last week was simply. "Gee, league football is quick, isn't it".

SIDEY'S SIDE BET

In his regular column in a Melbourne Sunday newspaper Gary Sidebottom was explaining his happy relationship with umpires and recalled: "I always remember my first game against Fitzroy in 1978 when George Young was shooting for goal".

An umpire came up to me and said; "Bet you $2 he misses". "You're on I replied". George goaled and sure enough he came up after the match and handed me $2.

SCORES WRONG

The goal umpires at the Perth-West Perth were a little out of order last week. The final scores on the board were wrong — and they should have done something to rectify this at the end of the match. The scoreboard showed Perth 15.16 (107) to West Perth's 27.13 (174). Of course, the points tallies do not relate to the totals and the error was made in the placing of a Perth point up against the West Perth score. The actual scores left people with the impression that West Perth had won by 69 points when in fact it was only 67 points. The goal umpires should have consulted in the middle of the ground and then approached the scoreboard (as they must do at other changeovers) and alert the scoreboard attendants of the error.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

Swan Districts coach John Todd must get the prize for "quote of the week" with his after-match comment. He felt that Claremont had used just about everyone they could think of to motivate the players during the week, with the possible exception of Percy the Penguin.

MELVILLE FIRING

The Melville side, playing in 'K' division in the West Australian Amateur Football League boasts a proud percentage after only three matches. The team has amassed an amazing 1384 percent (692 points for and only 50 against).

WILL RAY MOVE?

Mick Ray must have rued the move by Subiaco to appoint Ken Armstrong as coach. It was during the Armstrong era at Perth that Ray left the Demons on uneasy terms. He joined East Perth and is now with the Lions. Armstrong has started a programme of blooding young players at the first possible chance and now Ray may be moving on again.

Donna Bennett

V.F.L. GIRLIE PROBLEM

The VFL is currently being confronted by two "girlie" situations and is worried about tarnishing its image. It all began on April 7 when one of Carlton's renown "Bluebirds", Donna Bennett, took the field not knowing that her leotards had shrunk beneath her tiny skirt revealing most of her posterior. The picture above subsequently found its way on to the front page of Melbourne's Age newspaper. More than 200 appreciative males have contacted the Age seeking copies of the photo. The second incident, which is concerning the league, is a reported offer to the VFL's "Premier Girl 1980", Siv Richards (the winner of a league sponsored beauty quest) to pose nude for Playboy. The Swedish-born blonde said "I think it is every girls dream to appear in a magazine like Playboy".

The VFL apparently don't share her enthusiasm, they feel "it would not be in keeping with their mass entertainment image".

BEN COPS CAPTAIN

Tigerish little West Perth rover Les [illegible] has become accustomed to taking a buffetting in the league football arena. But he draws the line when one of his own players hands out the rough stuff. Last Saturday, he was the accidental recipient of a hefty shove from big Ben Jager, a burly ruckman who is hard to stop when in full flight. Jager crashed into his diminutive rover and literally saw him bounce along the turf after the collision. Fortunately, Fong is pretty tough and no harm was done.

DINGY SCOREBOARD

We recently had a harsh word to say about the inadequate scoreboard at Perth Oval that failed to give us the results of the earlier matches — the colts and the reserves. The same thing can now be said about [illegible] scoreboard at Lathlain Park. What about it Perth City Council? Doesn't football deserve something better than a dingy little scoreboard.
